Zeph Rose Resigns As Airport Director

Zeph D. Rose, who was instrumental in the formation of Truckee Tahoe Airport District, has resigned from his position on the district board of directors effective March 3.

Rose cited personal reasons for resigning from the post he has held for the past 12 years. Gordon Reddall, airport district manager, reported to the Sun that the remaining directors will appoint a successor to fill out Rose's unexpired term.

Rose's letter of resignation is reproduced below:

"A change in my personal activities renders it impossible for me to continue in the capacity as director of the Truckee Tahoe Airport District. Therefore tender my resignation to become effective immediately.

"In parting I wish to express my great satisfaction in helping to form the district in 1958 and helping to guide its efficient rapid growth to its present two lighted runways, three hangars, spacious parking areas and terminal building. Over the years it has been my pleasure to serve and work with many dedicated people. These include the charter board of directors, Rex Reid, Walter Speeter, Lee Appel, Fred Schultz and succeeding board members John Lintene, John Houlgate, Lauren Russell, Tom James, Allen Lewis, Bill Layton, Jack Domergue, Al Henry, Dallas McPherson and Oliver Crose; Managers Andy Creglow, C. O. Brandt and Gordon Reddall, and others of note including Carl Hand, Clyde Barnett, Cecil Edmunds, Winifred Edmunds and Joe Joerger.

"All of the above named people and others I've failed to mention contributed greatly to the development of the airport, but I'd like to mention a few who in my opinion stand alone in their exceptional devotion and intelligent guidance above and beyond the call of duty. These are Cecil Edmunds, the area's greatest promoter over the last 50 years of his life, who served on the formation committee and as the district's first secretary; Joe Joerger whose work has his bond in the face of considerable adversity and who furnished the airport land (along with the U.S. Forest Service). Others in this select group are Jack Houlgate, Lauren Russell, Jack Domergue and Gordon Reddall.

"It is my final wish that continuing and future board members maintain the past high level of enthusiasm and conduct and provide the astute reasoned guidance necessary to assure that Truckee Tahoe Airport reaches its destiny as truly 'The Airfield of the Sierras.'"

Sincerely,
ZEPH D. ROSE

Auto Accidents Injure Four In Nevada County

Four persons were injured in traffic accidents in Nevada county during the previous week. George Peter Badrosian, 26, Tahoe City, was taken to Tahoe Forest Hospital by a friend after he was hit while walking Highway 89 near Tahoe Tavern Road on Saturday.

Badrosian apparently side-stepped a puddle and was walking in the path of a car driven by William Richard Bosworth, 33, of Tahoe City. The vehicle hit Badrosian a glancing blow. Roger Perkins, 35, of Boise, Idaho, sustained injuries Friday night on Interstate 80 when the car in which he was a passenger collided with a rock that had tumbled onto the highway. Mrs. Joyce J. Perkins, 33, the driver, said she applied the brakes but the car skidded in the four-foot diameter rockany-way.

Clarence McNeely, 39, of Rancho Cordova, was taken to Tahoe Forest Hospital by a private citizen following a crash on Interstate 80 1 1/2 miles east of Boreal Ridge Road. He was a passenger in a vehicle driven by Alberto Campos, 27, Loomis. The Campos vehicle was repairing damage sustained in a previous collision when struck by a car driven by Earl Francis Martinelli, 59, of Sacramento.

Sidney Elwood Morrell, 47, West Sacramento, was given first aid at the scene of a crash at the intersection of Westside Road and Highway A23 in Sierra County. Morrell's tanker truck apparently went out of control into a broadside and rolled into an embankment.

Robert Emmett Morrissey of Crystal Bay was cited for excessive speed for conditions resulting in a three-car accident when his vehicle and two others collided last Wednesday on Highway 267 near South River Street. One of the vehicles involved was a school bus, but none of the children riding in it were injured.

Approve Grant

Congressman Harold T. (Bizz) Johnson, representing the Central Sierra Area, has announced approval of a supplementary grant of $76,780 to the Tahoe City Public Utilities District.

The funds will supplement a previously approved Federal Water Pollution Control Administration grant of $767,800 to assist the district in completing its West Shore export facilities.

The total cost of the project is estimated at $2,579,356.

TNT Ski Team Set For Finals

Coach Leon Lucchesi's undefeated Tahoe - Truckee High School ski team will go to the California-Nevada Interscholastic Ski Federation Championships at Mt. Rose this weekend, following the teams win of the giant slalom at Tahoe Ski Bowl last weekend.

The two-day championships will begin Friday with a giant slalom and concludes Saturday with a dual slalom. An awards banquet followed by a dance is scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday at Mt. Rose.

Tahoe - Truckee accumulated 399 points in the events, followed by Lee Vining with 325.5. Top individual skiers included: Russel Brett, Tahoe-Truckee; Randy Cook, Lee Vining; Tom Wise, Portola; Scott Hawkins, Brill Brehler, John Scoville, and Randy Austin, all of Tahoe-Truckee.

In the girl's events the first nine of the top 10 places went to Tahoe Truckee and Lee Vining skiers: Babe Street, Tahoe-Truckee; Jess Oldfield, Lee Vining; Pat Northrup, Tahoe-Truckee; Candy Oldfield, Lee Vining; Pat Tilton, Debbie Everson, both of Tahoe-Truckee; Didi Lawrence, Lee Vining, and Judy Price, Tahoe-Truckee.

Walling Wins Dog Sled Race

Truckee musher Dave Walling, chairman of the ninth annual North Lake Tahoe and Truckee-Donner Chambers of Commerce Dog Sled Races, emerged as the winner of the event held last weekend at the Truckee - Tahoe Airport.

Walling overcame a two-second lead scored Saturday by Nevada City competitor Jack Daniels to win by two minutes the overall title in the 16-mile Class A competition.

The local man drove the course in 50 minutes, 55 seconds Sunday, only the third best time, but good enough for a two-day total of 1 hour, 39 minutes, 46 seconds.

Daniels took third overall with a combined time of 1 hour, 41 minutes and 49 seconds.

Second spot in the Class A race classic went to Bob Leverson of Belvedere with a total elapsed time of 1 hour, 41 minutes and 29 seconds.

Fourth place overall was Jim Keller of Sisters, Ore., who had the fastest time yesterday of 50:28. He totaled 1:42:41 for the two days.

Art Christensen of Jefferson, Ore., raced the 16 miles yesterday in 52:47 to take fifth overall with 1:45:09.

Only six minutes separated the first five places in combined times.

Eldon N. Alt of Klamath Falls, Ore., a five-year veteran of dog sled racing, was sixth overall and Saturday announced that this event was his last. Now in his 60s, Alt raced 16 miles yesterday in 68:26 for a combined time of 2:16:13.

Liz Henderson of Jacksonville, Ore., maintained her lead in Class B to go on to win the event yesterday. She drove nine miles yesterday in 41 minutes, 38 seconds to win overall in the two days of racing with a total time of 1 hour, 23 minutes, 49 seconds. Second place was Martha Cluffre of Sun Valley, Los Angeles County, with a total time of 1:24:15. Pat Daniels of Nevada City was third in 1:25:17, Len Miller of Mazama, Wash., fourth in 1:26:44, and Joan Walling of Truckee was fifth with a two-day total of 1:31:15.

Class C dogs raced three miles each day. The overall winner was Bella Leverson of Belvedere, Marin County, in a total time of 1 hour, 9 minutes, 13 seconds. Steve Walling of Truckee took second in 1:17:58 and his sister, Sheryl, won third with 1:24:01. Gary Link of Fairfax won fourth in 1:26:00 and Helen Dayton of Sacramento was fifth with 1:26:23.

Mutt race winners were Dick Miller of Tahoe City, first; Greg Wurst, Truckee, second; and Roberta Huber, Truckee, third.

Amy and Bruce Stephenson of Daly City took first place in the snow sculpture competition with their mamma and puppy dogs. Second place went to Lynn Lauderdale of Tahoe City for a family of snowmen; Karen Steele of Santa Rosa received honorable mention for her original snowsled, dog and igloo.

Sanitary District Gives New Highway Chief O.K. To Northwoods

Truckee Sanitation District board of directors has given its blessing to the 4,000-acre Tahoe Northwoods urban-density real estate development north of here of the Lake-world Development Corp.

Lakeworld director of development Ronald L. Pardini said the corporation will install a 45,000-foot trunk sewer line through the center of the property as a base for future sewers on the residential sites and to request annexation to the sanitary district on an individual unit basis. Pardini agreed to set up a fund composed of about $50 per lot on the 6,000 sites to be used by the district in future sewer engineering, planning and design when property owners organized sewer assessment districts. He said Lakeworld would furnish a master sewer plan showing proposed easements too.

The trunk sewer line would serve commercial and multiple residential sites, all of which would be annexed to the district.

The development is seeking water from the Truckee-Donner Public Utility District, which has applied for 4,000 acre feet from Donner Lake to serve the development through an 18-inch main. The PUD and Lakeworld are to meet at 7:30 p.m. today in PUD offices to draw up an agreement.

Improvements at Tahoe Northwoods will cost about $14 million and take four years to complete. Pardini said home construction is expected to reach 15 per cent in 10 years and ultimate population is 15,000. He said streets would be designed for 20 years and snow removal would be done by a county service district.

The Truckee Environmental Impact Committee asked for studies by the district and the developer on the ecological impact. Committee member Roberta Huber of Truckee charged local county representatives failed in their moral obligation to keep Truckee people informed about the project.

LaRoy W. Carroll, 40, has been promoted to highway superintendent in the Truckee maintenance territory of the California Division of Highways succeeding Frank Fox of Truckee who has retired after a 33-year career.

The appointment, effective immediately, was announced today by District Highway Engineer W. L. Warren who heads the 11-county District 3 area headquartered in Marysville.

Carroll will transfer to Truckee from Placerville where he has worked for three years as Assistant Highway Superintendent with major responsibilities for snow removal on U. S. 50 over Echo Summit and Route 89 along the west shore of Lake Tahoe.

The newly-appointed superintendent will be responsible for maintenance, upkeep repair and seasonal snow removal on 160 miles of state highways in the western sections of Placer, Nevada and Sierra counties. This includes Route 80 freeway over the summit of the Sierra.

"This is a key position in the district's maintenance organization," Warren said, "and I am confident the new superintendent will render a high level of service to motorists at the same time providing effective leadership to the 58 men assigned as his staff."

In addition to his regular staff Carroll will also supervise the 70-man crew hired annually in the winter months for snow removal.

Carroll has been with the Division of Highways since 1955 when he began work in the Porterville area as an equipment operator.

He has been steadily promoted from that position to maintenance Man III, foreman and assistant superintendent and has frequently been called on to teach equipment operation and safety procedures to his crews.

A native of Porterville, he earned an associate of arts degree in the junior college there.

He served in the Air Force four years as a staff sergeant in the supply corps before entering state service.

Carroll and his wife, Mae Rue, who is active in church work, have two children; Sabrina, 11, and Bruce, 2.

Jewish Appeal

The United Jewish Appeal has started its 1970 campaign with Dr. Emanuel Berger of Reno as general chairman, assisted by Herb Kahn of Tahoe City.

Most of the funds collected are earmarked for non-military projects in Israel, such as help to refugees including medical and social assistance.

Michael Ravid, consul general of Israel, will speak Friday at 8 p.m. at Temple Emanuel, Reno, it was announced.

Placer Approves Plan For Kings Beach Area

A general plan for North Lake Tahoe, which states the highest attainable environmental standards will be used in the future, has been adopted by the Placer County board of Supervisors. The plan, culminating two years of study and public hearings, covers an area from Carnelian Bay to the Nevada State line. It contains 5,500 acres from the shoreline two to five miles into the forested area on the rim of the lake.

Primarily concerned with the Kings Beach area where preliminary planning for the report began some seven years ago, the studies refuted statements that structures in the area were in "poor" condition, indicated approximately 85 per cent of the buildings were structurally sound and financially unfeasible to rehabilitate.

The goals and policies of the plan called for a balanced community with retention of industrial service areas, increased recreational facilities, careful development of the forested land on the rim of the lake, maximum public use of beaches, strict controls on cutting or removal of trees, careful control of population growth related to existing living facilities and strong emphasis on cluster and condominium developments to best fit the natural landscape with a minimum of disturbance.

Board Meets

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:
Last Thursday night the Truckee Public Utility District held a special meeting to consider the draft agreement with Lakeworld Development Company to supply water from Donner Lake to the proposed Tahoe Northwoods subdivision.
The necessity to draw water from Donner Lake, chlorinate it, and use it in the TPUD system is of interest to the citizens of the District. The Board would have been wise to have delayed final approval of the agreement until the citizens of the District had been fully informed.
Citizens were not kept informed during the formulation of plans to acquire Donner Lake water, and the condition, capacity, and resources of the District which apparently necessitate this water source. Surely, these matters can stand public scrutiny.

TPUD is a public agency and its primary responsibility is to the voters of the District. How can the Directors properly assess what is in the best interests of the people if the people do not know what is happening within the District's jurisdiction? If the newspapers do not seek out information, the District still has a responsibility to keep citizens informed about its business and its effects upon them as water users and taxpayers.

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:
I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to Doctor Wiser and the entire staff of Tahoe Forest Hospital for the wonderful care during my stay there. We are so very fortunate to have so many well qualified doctors and nurses and such a well equipped hospital.
Also many thanks to the wonderful friends for the flowers, cards and their concern.
God bless each of you,

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:
The Environmental Impact Committee met on Friday, March 6, to better evolve our purposes, review what had occurred last week and plan future action.

As now formulated, the purpose of the group is to maintain and protect the natural environment. We feel that a large part of the problem in this area is lack of communication between our various district officers and the public. To remedy this situation we will attempt to have at least one observer at each meeting that might relate to environment. If anything came up it would be his duty to publicize this through the committee. We will also attempt to maintain a file of agenda and minutes of these public agencies that would be available to the general public at some central location. We would attempt to evaluate projects on the basis of impact, economics and zoning, thereby hopefully, maintaining a balance between the extremes of developers and preservationists.
Some projects that have been mentioned and on which inquiry has begun are Martis Dam, various subdivisions, Plan B of the disposal of North Tahoe effluent, evaluation of the tax structure and zoning in the county.

We expect that with this varied program, many people will be interested in only one or two areas and our membership will therefore fluctuate with the project of the moment. All persons interested are urged to contact Robert Sutton at 587-4161.

It was a busy week with three public meetings where the Lakeworld Project was being discussed. The following is our interpretation of what occurred.
1. Truckee Sanitary District: Sewers were required along Trout Creek for the commercial development and the ski area. Potential builders on lots adjacent to that line would be able to hook up immediately those off the line would be allowed septic tanks until sewers would be feasible. Once the mainline was installed at Lakeworld's expense, the area would be annexed to the Truckee Sanitary District; $50 per lot would be collected and placed in escrow to pay for engineering of the subsequent sewer lines. A special improvement district would be set up within the district to pay for the installation of the gathering system. It was proposed that an area for sanitary land fill disposal of solid waste be designated within the project or adjacent thereto.

2. Truckee - Donner P.U.D.: Lakeworld would pay for all costs involved in diversion, chlorination and storage of water from Donner Lake for use by Tahoe Sierra and Truckee. Lakeworld will also pay the P.U.D. $15,000 to develop a well in the general vicinity of Prosser Creek Dam, $40 per lot is to be collected and turned over to the P.U.D. A $220,000 bond will be posted to insure Lakeworld complies with their contract. The possibility of using taxes from the improvement district as further insurance that the project will not cost existing tax payers any money for water.

3. The Advisory Review Committee to the Planning Commission had several suggestions for revision of the tentative map for Lakeworld.
a) Department of Fish and Game requested a 1/4 mile wide corridor be maintained for the migratory deer herd. Storm drainage to be exported, all storm drainage to be underground or rip-rapped.
b) The engineers of the Lahontan District of the Water Quality Control Board recommended full sewers from the outset
c) Nevada County Health Department recommended full sewers from the outset and sanitary land fill on or adjacent to the project.
Future dates for anyone interested:

March 13 - 8 p.m. Meeting of the Committee at the Huber House (587-3759).
March 16 - 7:30 p.m. PTA Meeting at which representatives of Lakeworld will be present, Truckee Elementary School.
March 20 - 8 p.m. Meeting of the Committee at the Huber House.

A group of citizens in the Truckee area has recently formed an organization called the Environmental Impact Committee. One of the concerns of this group is subdivision development in eastern Nevada County. We are concerned about its long-range effects upon the inter-relationships of all life system within our area. We are particularly concerned about both the ecological and economic impact of the proposed Lakeworld Development Company subdivision with an ultimate population of perhaps 20,000 people.

We believe that this project has progressed to this point without the residents of the area being fully informed or consulted. The only publicity prior to public hearings held by the Planning Commission last November and the Board of Supervisors in January was in the legal notice columns of the newspapers. The few people from our area who knew about these hearings and who spoke in favor of the General Plan Amendment to Urban Density were realtors and subdividers.
Before the Planning Commission considers any further action upon this project, we request that the Commission take three preliminary steps.
1) We request that the Planning Commission arrange a competent, independent study by qualified scientists to evaluate the long-range effects of this development upon the environment.

Fire Chief Lectures At Conference

Robert Butler, fire chief of the Squaw Valley Fire Protection District, and several other local residents were instructors at the recent three-day avalanche control seminar held at Donner State Park and local ski areas.
Sponsored by the National Ski Patrol System, Far West Division, it was open to non-ski patrol persons who are involved in avalanche prediction, control and rescue.
"I attended for two reasons," notes Butler. "First, I am a ski patrolman and hope to get my avalanche instructors rating this spring. Secondly, the fire department here has a mountain search and rescue team and we may be involved in back-country avalanche rescue. Also we need to know about avalanches so we don't get trapped ourselves while conducting a back-country search or rescue operation."

Participating on the instructors' staff at the conference were Monty Atwater, Dr. John James, LeRoy Hill of Squaw Valley; Norm Wilson of Alpine Meadows; and Joe Spofford, SVSR patrol leader.
Saw the plans for the new motel complex which is proposed to be built in front of and directly adjoining the Truckee-Tahoe Airport and it is impressive to say the least. It will have facilities for club meetings and 30 sleeping units, as I understand it, (swimming pool, too). Guess this is the blast-off on the short-cut as we have all been predicting so many years. The rumor has it that condominiums will be built across the street and down a few blocks toward Truckee. Pretty soon we'll look just like the big cities!

Got another missile from Dixie Evans and pictures to boot. She looks fine and is thrilled with her public relations work with the Bahamas Hotel Corporation. She filled me in a little more on what's been happening over the past 20 years. When she was in show business, she played in most of the cities in the United States, also Canada, Alaska and Mexico. The only states she missed were North Dakota and Montana. That's traveling and then some but she's glad to be retired from it. Much too harrowing. She promised to come visit soon.

An interesting statistic: Man is still the lowest-cost, non-linear, all-purpose computing system that is being mass-produced by unskilled labor.
When I hit the Coffee And just after 12, I can't help but think of the remark I read: "If they weren't so crowded here all the time, this place would do a lot more business." And then I read: "The shortest distance between two jokes makes a perfect speech." So 'nuff 'nuff, SI?

Phil Sprang has taken over the Hilltop Lodge and has great plans for remodeling the whole shebang. He will revive the ski hill and perhaps there will be room for tobogganing too. It will be nice to see it in operation again, won't it? Will keep you informed of his plans as they progress.

Duane and Steffie Anderson will be parents in May for the first time. You may already know this but if you don't you would never guess to look at Steffie, would you?

My Bluebirds are checking out their birdhouse and Robins pecking at the exposed grass so if they don't know about the weather, who does? I say spring must be just around the corner.

A group of irate citizens converged on me this weekend asking that I comment in this column about the Truckee-Donner Public Utility District's negotiations with Lakeworld for the transportation of drinking water from Donner Lake to their subdivision.

In talking with Mr. Cattani, I found that the proposal's acceptance has been given and the contract will be signed almost immediately. No one seems opposed to their taking the water for their project (all at their own expense), it's just that they do not want the system tied in with the Soma Sierra and Donner Trail Subdivision's storage tanks. The reason? Because some chlorination will be necessary.

A letter shown me by Mr. Cattani from H. B. Foster, Jr., Bureau of Sanitary Engineering of Redding, states, "Records indicate the chemical bacteriological and physical quality of Donner Lake Water is good for a domestic source. Donner Lake water could be used as a domestic source with a minimum of chlorination treatment provided certain conditions are met."

The letter stated the location of water intake and depth and two more 'musts,' all of which the district plans to do.
Mr. Cattani showed the proposed route of the line, says they will pump from the northeast end of the lake but well out into it for purity. They will not pump from the mouth of Donner Creek as that showed too much pollution and would require heavy treatment. To satisfy everyone,

I believe the TPUD should publish a full explanation with maps of their plans and would like to suggest that they change only one part of the plan. Wouldn't it be feasible to bypass the two tanks at Soma Sierra and Donner Trail, then go direct to the property line of the Lakeworld development, assuring the concerned Truckee residents that their pure spring water would not be disturbed or mixed with their chlorination?

Truckee Tales

By BETTY KIELHOFFER
I was in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wolert last week and it is truly comfortable and cozy. They have a porch built out over the river and cherish entertaining out there all summer. Another feature is a full fireplace in the kitchen which they light each morning. The river was really roaring beneath our feet. Kinda' thrilling!

Bob and Karen Zirbel adopted a little girl last week when she was only two days young. With four boys in the family, this will be quite an adjustment for the whole family. Guess their trip to the Orient was called off at the last moment due to some of the strife over that way lately.

Clara Aguerre just bounced out of the Riverside Beauty Salon on Wednesday where Jo had given her a darling new 'flup' hair-do and a lift in spirit at the same time. Might start a new trend there, Clare!

Dr. H. L. Lorenz of San Francisco, featuring "all the latest methods and appliances of modern dental science," will be at the White House Hotel, in Truckee on March 15 and "will be here for a short time, depending on patronage." His ad proclaimed, "Prices reasonable as consistent with good workmanship and material. No charge for examination and advice."

The local goal of $1,500 in the March Red Cross drive reached only half its mark when Mrs. T. T. Buell, chairman of the Wyethia Women's Club committee sponsoring the drive, announced that $767.50 had been turned in up to Monday.

Mrs. Charles Matthews, chairman of the Tahoe Red Cross drive, reports that the drive there is going along very well.

Conservation Week was observed by the Tahoe elementary school from March 7 to 14 through the medium of art in the primary room and the weaving of essays around the theme in the intermediate room.

From Sunbeams: It is hard to believe that one out of every ten on the state relief roll is a boy or girl of high school age, but that was the recent report of the SRA.

Earl Edmunds, skiing for the Sugar Bowl Club near Donner Summit, tied for third place in the opening downhill run in the state downhill and slalom championships at Yosemite March 8, the time being 2:43.

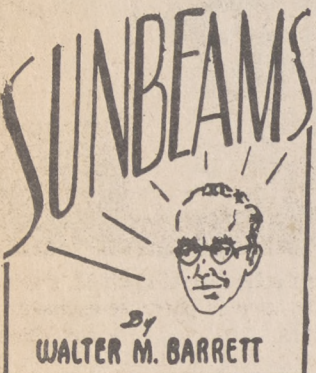

Motion pictures playing at the Donner Theatre were "That's Right You're Wrong" starring Kay Kyser and Adolph Menjou; "The Fighting 69th" with James Cagney and Pat O'Brien; and "Swanee River" starring Don Ameche and Andrea Leeds.

We said it before, but it's worth repeating. We believe the state legislators are taking a very unique method of controlling inflation.

Not only did these destiny controllers vote themselves a huge increase in salaries, with still more to be added in the near future, but they had the nerve to seek an additional $5 per day to the already sufficient $25 for personal expense while they are on duty away from home. And away from home, on some pretext or another, they are most of the time.

Fortunately for the over-taxed taxpayer, this request has been denied, temporarily at least.

While these lawmakers take more and more compensation for themselves, because, they contend, of the ever-increasing cost of living and inflation, they are seeking methods to curtail state expenses by cutting down the number of gainfully employed state employees, eliminating many services and advising their constituents to tighten their belts.

Not only are legislators taking a nice bite out of the state's budget for themselves, but from all other sources, purportedly for campaign expenses, are no small item.

The recent reports that one state senator accepted a goodly chunk of cash from a private concern three years in advance of his tentative campaign for reelection, was a shocking revelation. Or was it? The seeming apathy of the other legislators regarding the "scandal" was quite apparent, leading us to wonder that when people live in glass houses they should be careful where they throw rocks.

We are certain there are many honest, sincere representatives in our legislature, men not in the least concerned with self, but working for the best interests of their constituents, but we wonder occasionally if they are not outnumbered by those concerned entirely with self and their close friends, supporters and associates. We hope we are wrong.

Also honored at a banquet at the college were Mike Tarantino as the most outstanding wrestler at the college and Alex Lissow as the most inspirational member of the Wolverine mat squad.

Morris, a graduate of Roseville High, was presented the most improved player award. They lanky Wolverine earned himself a starting position after the season started and finished as one of the team's top scorers and the leading rebounder.

Besides scoring 210 points during the season, he finished among conference leaders in the rebounding department.

Childs was recognized as the most outstanding defensive player on the Wolverine hoopsquad. His defensive work was noted by the several coaches as well as Sierra Coach George Goto. Childs was an all-Sierra Football League performer at Placer High last year.

Tarantino, the smallest wrestler on John Horillo's mat team at 118-pounds, was the top finisher in the recently completed Golden Valley wrestling championships, grabbing a second place. Lissow, a 24-year old and the "grandfather" of the team, is the largest. The 240-pound heavy-weight returned to school this year after a military stint and finished fourth in the GVC meet.

Receiving second year awards for basketball were Ralph Rick and Wes Ford. Frosh letters went to James Rose, Len Brustori, Childs, Tim Jones, Scott Winter, Don Davies, Morris, Dave DeArcos and Kevin McClain.

Wrestlers honored were Steve Bennette, Jim Bogart, Chris Dady, Pat Godwin, Gus Jeskey, Gary Lewis, Doug Patterson, Tarantino, Larry Webber and John Gibson.

Three University of California at Davis pitchers limited Sierra College hitters to three hits March 3 as the Davis Mustang junior varsity leveled the Wolverines, 5-2 in Davis.

Sierra jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning but failed to score in the following eight frames while the Mustangs put across one run in the first, three in the fourth and one in the fifth.

The Rocklin college was eliminated in the second round of the American River College Invitational baseball tournament held at Harry Renfree Field when the Wolverines dropped a 1-0 decision to the host ARC Beavers.

Sierra had moved to the second round after defeating Merritt of Oakland, 10-9 in a wild slugathon earlier in the day.

The golf team opened its 1970 season on a winning note last Thursday, defeating American River College, 512-521 on Whitney Ranch National Golf Course.

Sierra's Jack Anderson took low gross honors with a 73. Other Wolverine scorers were Robery Kyn 77, John Eisenhower 84, Jeff Dryan 87, John Joyner 95 and Robert Applegate 96.

Scouts Start Annual Sale Of Cookies

The 58th anniversary of Girl Scouts in America will be observed this week through Saturday. The annual cookie sale of the scouts began last Friday and will continue for two weeks.

Each year at this time the Girl Scouts in the Sierra Nevada Girl Scout Council are busy selling their cookies from door-to-door in order to raise money to provide scouting, to buy much-needed equipment, staff and printed materials, and to build their camping program.

Buying from the local girls will benefit the local needs.

According to Mrs. Margo Benson, the cookie chairman, the cookies sell for $1 a box this year, because they are in a double pack with individual wrap cookies. There are five different varieties offered.

Serving with Mrs. Benson as individual troop coordinators are Betty Causey and Carlyn Martello in Truckee, Diane Clark in Kings Beach, Maxine Preston of Incline Beach, and Dorene McDaniel, Marguerite Shaw and Peggy Adams in Tahoe City.

If the girl scouts miss residents at home, they will also be selling the cookies in the shopping areas.

All members of the community have been urged to support the group by purchasing the cookies from the girls.

Historic Guide To Truckee-Tahoe

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the twenty-fifth in a series of excerpts taken from "Edwards' Tourist Guide and Directory of the Truckee Basin," published in 1883 by W. F. Edwards, former editor of the Truckee Republican.)

The history of Truckee would not be complete without a brief sketch of "601", an organization that struck terror to the heart of the evil-doer, and exerted a salutary influence over the rough element that in the days of its formation formed no small portion of the town. The law seemed powerless; the desperadoes increased and ran the town with high hand. Appeals to manhood and decency were of no avail; officers of the law could not cope single-handed with a horde of desperadoes that recognized no law, cared for nothing and ran riotous throughout the town. Already had Truckee's fame, as a castle of strength for ruffians, outlaws, cutthroats and their ilk gone forth and her name was fast becoming a synonym for lawlessness and vice.

After the July fire of 1871, the first organization was made. The respectable element had submitted to outrages unspokeable, and were, unless some concert of action could be had, fast becoming terrorized. A secret meeting was called by the citizens, who were determined to rid the town of those who would not submit to the law and behave themselves. Of the right, or authority for an organization of the kind, it is not worth while to speak. Justice, had indeed, been powerless for a long time to the best interests of the town and in accordance with the determination of the meeting, notices were served upon the supposedly incendiary of the town, that she must leave at once.

She did not mind it, or at least, did not obey the notice for a few days, when one morning the town was found to be pretty well decorated with red flags. This warning was efficacious, and the woman shook the Truckee ashes from her heels in the double quick time and was never seen here afterwards. For a long time it had a salutary effect, and it was not until 1874 that their services were again brought into requisition. At that time the town was literally overrun with a horde of ruffians of both sexes who committed every crime in the calendar and went unpunished. The officers were unable to protect life or property and a number of the roughs received notice to travel to other parts. Some of them did not heed the warning and on the night of December 23, 1874, the 601's turned out to enforce their order. While searching the rear part of a saloon for one of the desperadoes, it appears that the party who were inside the building mistook one of their own party, who was outside the building, for the man they were hunting. This man proved to be D. B. Frink and as he presented a pistol at the party on the inside, one of them fired at him. The ball going through a broken panel in rear door struck Frink and killed him almost instantly. Who killed Frink was not known outside of the 601's. No one was ever arrested for it and no one was ever accused of murder. The prescribed parties, save one, that the 601's were after, left town in a hurry after that.

On the night of the 24th of December, the same year, one of the men by the name of Spencer, who had received notice to quit town and had not complied, was standing in a prominent saloon talking with his father and Frank Rabel, upon the very subject of the 601's. Suddenly and quietly a band of masked men appeared in front of the saloon; some of them entered - the number who entered was estimated at from six to eight - and advanced toward where the men were standing. Young Spencer was just about to turn when a charge of buckshot was fired at him at a distance of not more than 12 feet. The charge, it appears hit the back of his wrist but none of the shots entered there - and then passed into the muscles of the upper arm about midway between the elbow and shoulder. The arm must have been bent and raised about breast high. Eight shots took effect in the arm - four passed through, two were taken from the skin on the shoulder and one is still unaccounted for; several of the shot grazed the bone and probably opened the shoulder joint. When the shot struck, he was turned so that he fell in the center of the floor where he lay until the men retreated and he was picked up and led away to Dr. Curless's office where the wound was dressed. (More next week).

UTILITY BELT - Lt. Bert G. Kershaw, commander of the Truckee substation of the Nevada County Sheriff's Office, is shown explaining the specially-made belt worn by all peace officers. Lt. Kershaw was asked to speak by the students of Donner Trail School, Kingsvale, and answered many questions the youngsters asked about his job. - Sun Photo

Big Bend Forest Rangers Participate In Snow Test

John M. Guthrie, fire control officer, and Monte E. Wilcox, project sales officer, of the U.S. Forest Service Big Bend Ranger District participated in a snow survey of the Huysink snow course last Wednesday.

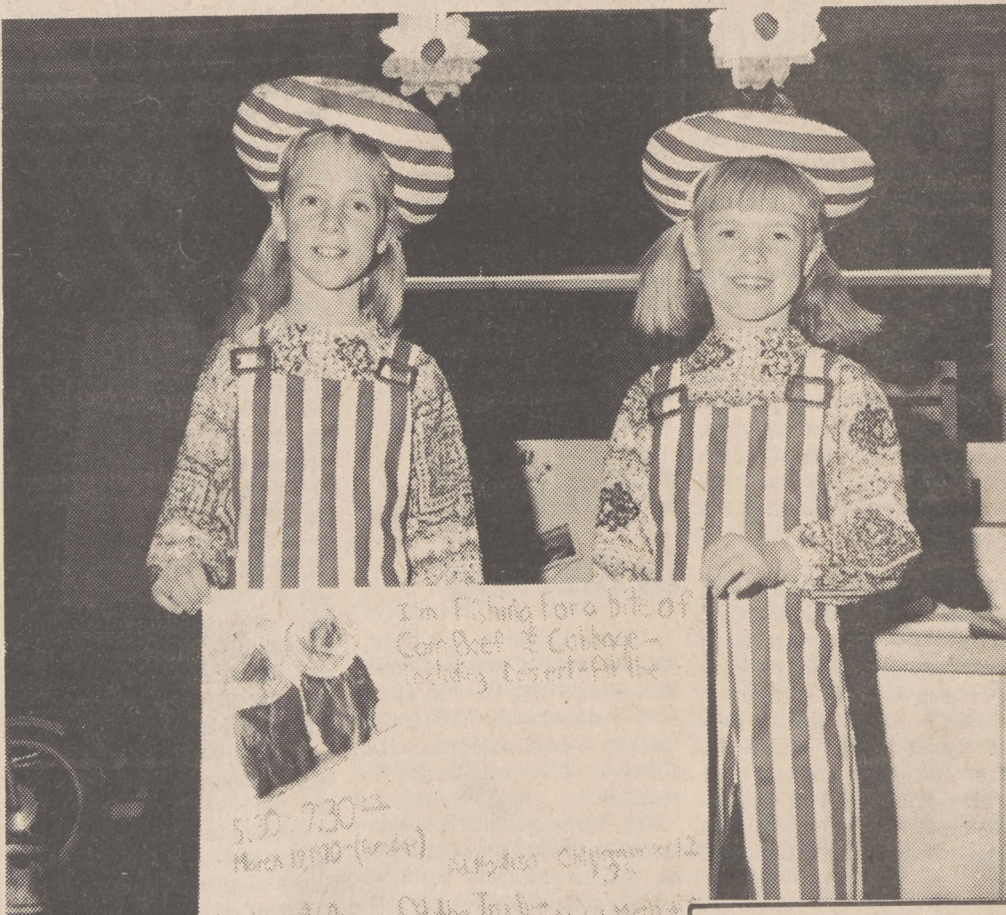

Data reports indicate the average snow depth to be 87 inches with an average water content of 35.6 inches. The report for the same period last year was 200.6 inches of snow with a water content of 77.4 inches. That was an above-average year, though, as the 12-year average for the first of March is 94.6 inches of snow and a water content of 37.2 inches.

While taking the survey, it was noticed that the small streams were clear and flowing through the course area. Many of these small streams have not been covered over with snow due to heavy rains in December and January which washed the snow badly.

The water from this course drains into Big Valley Creek which in turn flows into the North fork of the American River. These surveys are made in cooperation with the California Department of Water Resources who use the data to compile and publish information of benefit to water users throughout the state.

There will be two more surveys taken this year: one in April and the other in May.

SHAMROCK BONANZA - These Truckee youngsters will appear on the program of the Truckee Community United Methodist Church sponsored St. Patrick's Shamrock Dinner next Tuesday evening. Donation is $1.50 for adults and $.75 for children under 12. Following the dinner there will be a community songfest of old Irish-American favorites with Mrs. Steve Dunbar at the piano. All proceeds will go to the Women's Society of Christian Service at the Methodist Church. The public is invited to attend. - Sun Photo

Call For Bids

The California Division of Highways has called for bids on two projects in Nevada County.

At two locations on Interstate 80 in Nevada County, between 9-mile east of Truckee River Bridge at Floriston and .7-mile east of Farad Undercrossing, falling rocks present an occasional hazard. This situation will be minimized by reshaping the existing cut slope and constructing a fence at one location and in widening the slope to include a catchment trench at the other location.

Bids will be opened April 1 in Sacramento. A total of $310,000 is available for the project.

Scholarships Will Be Given To Sierra College Students

Twenty-five scholarships are being offered to students attending Sierra College this week. "Applications are now being received at the student personnel office," reports Martin D. Taylor, dean of student personnel services at the college. "We try to advise students that many good scholarships exist and that they must submit applications for them."

General scholarships include: Alpha Gamma Sigma Honor Society, amount variable; Easter Seal Society of Placer County amount to be announced; Evelyn W. Bliss Scholarship, $200; Robert Sloan Fouke Scholarship, $150.

Scholarships limited to freshmen are: American Association of University Women, two, $100 each; Auburn Kiwanis Club, $150; SC Faculty Association, $100; Capital Area Association Education Office Employees, $50; CowBelles, two, $100 each; and Pla-Vada, $50.

DMV To Register Boats This Year

Boat registration in California is now the responsibility of the Department of Motor Vehicles rather than the Department of Navigation and Ocean Development (formerly Harbors and Watercraft), announced DMV Director Robert Cozens today. "No disruption of service to the boating public or to boat dealers should occur," emphasized John L. McLaughlin, registrar of motor vehicles.

Placer Man In Trouble In Vietnam

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) - A U. S. Army Special Forces sergeant pleaded guilty today to charges stemming from a bizarre rest - and recuperation trip to Hong Kong with his Vietnamese fiancée last September.

Sgt. Timothy Kephart, 26, of Auburn, winner of a Silver Star and four Bronze Stars, admitted at a pretrial hearing that he impersonated an officer and forged identification cards. Kephart, who is being defended by San Francisco Attorney Melvin Belli, faces sentencing Wednesday at this sprawling army base 12 miles northeast of Saigon. The maximum penalty is 7 1/2 years' hard labor, reduction to private, forfeiture of all pay and dishonorable discharge. Currency violation charges against Kephart were dropped. Belli had sought dismissal of all charges, claiming that a military courts martial violates a defendant's constitutional rights because members of the jury are hand-picked by commanders.

The military judge, Col.

Rawls H. Frazier, 49, of Alhambra, Calif., denied the motion, which Belli later said was intended as a challenge to the Uniform Code of Military Justice. Kephart admitted that in his capacity as Special Forces liaison sergeant at Cam Ranh Bay, he obtained blank identification documents and forged one set for himself and one set for his Vietnamese fiancée.

Then, traveling on false orders as Special Forces Capt. Howard I. Nash and Army nurse Lt. Kim G. Nash, they flew to Hong Kong for a week's vacation.

Lt. Boecking Says Freeway Shoulder For Parking Only

"The shoulder of a freeway is for emergency parking only. It is not intended for use as an acceleration lane," Lt. F. J. Boecking of the California Highway Patrol reminded drivers today. "Shoulders are not travel lanes. On modern freeways, with acceleration lanes up to a quarter mile long, drivers entering freeways should accelerate until they've matched their speed to that of the through lane closest to them, then select the opening into which they will move, signal their intention and merge," Boecking said.

"On older freeways, on which on-ramps may lead directly into the moving traffic and where traffic densities are heavy the problem is more difficult. However, even on those freeways, the shoulder should not be used as a traffic lane," the CHP commander stated.

Must Give Full Data On Tax Claims

Frank R. Chilton Jr., Placer County assessor, stated today that many property owners who have filed their 1970 claims for a homeowner's exemption have failed to list their social security numbers.

"There is a place on the back of the claim to enter the social security numbers of both husband and wife if the property is owned by both or a separate place if the property is owned by one person," Chilton pointed out.

"A claim that is filed properly saves on costly follow-up procedures," he continued. "The pre-numbered card form for the claim should be used and should be filed in the assessor's office by April 15."

Questions regarding the exemption should be directed to the assessor's office on the second floor of the courthouse in Auburn. Chilton may be reached by telephoning 885-7711 ext. 291.

Historical Society To Take Commemorative Train Ride

The Sacramento County Historical Society will sponsor a train trip to Truckee and return on Saturday, May 9. This trip will be a re-run of the Golden Spike Centennial trip which was held last year to commemorate the completion of the transcontinental railroad. The trip is open to the general public.

The train will leave Sacramento at 10 a.m. Passengers will be picked up in Roseville and Colfax. The train will stop in Truckee for two hours and return to Sacramento at 8 p.m. The fare for this trip will be $12 for adults and $6.50 for children 12 or under.

Tickets may be obtained by sending a check to the Sacramento County Historical Society, P. O. Box 1175, Sacramento. In order to assure a reservation, it is necessary that tickets be purchased prior to April 1. Thomas Conover and George Hume are Co-chairman of this event.

NEWS FROM NORTH TAHOE PUBLIC UTILITY DISTRICT

The option of paying sewer connection fees along with sewer construction assessments over the 15-year life of sewer bonds in sewer assessment district No. A54 apparently has created some confusion among property owners. SAD A54 includes the south portion of Agate Bay to Carnelian Bay. Directors of the North Tahoe Public Utility District have provided this option as a convenience to its customers. The connection fee, which is $225 for single homes, may or may not be included with assessment payments. Customers with vacant lots or who wish not to have the fee included have only to discard the notice of request for inclusion included with other notices mailed to them concerning SAD A54. If the connection fee is included in assessments it can be paid in installments over 15 years. All customers are required to pay a $225 minimum connection fee before they connect the lines on their property to district lines. Hotel and motels are required to pay an additional $25 per room, condominiums an additional $100 for each living unit, apartments an additional $100 for each unit, mobile home parks an additional $100 for each trailer space, and other commercial buildings are charged $225 plus an additional charge based on estimated sewage flow obtained from building specifications submitted to the PUD engineer. The estimated cost of SAD A 54 is $1,347,890. The estimated lot assessments do not include the cost of installing a sewer line on private property nor the connection fee. Construction bids were opened Tuesday, March 10, in Auburn. Placer County supervisors will hear any protests from SAD A54 on Tuesday, March 17, at 10 a.m. in Auburn. For 30 days after that property owners will be allowed to pay assessments in cash. After 30 days, unpaid assessments will be payable for 15 years with regular annual tax bills. The "house service" location is the point at which the public sewer terminates at the property line of a lot or parcel. Sewer lines in A54 have been located in streets and at the rear and side lot lines to provide the most economical system, so the connection point will not always be at the street property line. Plans which show locations of all connection points are on file at the PUD office or with Raymond Vail and Associates in Tahoe City or Fair Oaks, Sacramento County. Usually connection points for lots with existing buildings will be located on the property line nearest to the building and which will permit gravity flow. Connection points, or house services, on vacant lots usually are located at the lowest point on the property line.

Placer County Will Sponsor Workshops On Environment

Thinking about the future of Lake Tahoe is the challenge Placer County will present to a battery of environmental, legislative, engineering and business specialists in an upcoming series of workshops and symposiums.

The county has asked recognized experts to meet with them in Kings Beach on March 20, in Auburn on April 3, and in Sacramento on April 27 to explore new techniques for control of the Lake Tahoe environment.

Faced with approximately $100 million in construction now up for approval, the county supervisors have asked how far development at the Lake can go.

Workshop participants meeting in Kings Beach and Auburn will be asked to review the county's development policies and make recommendations for review at a Sacramento symposium to be moderated by Lt. Governor Ed Reineke.

In issuing the invitations to the conference, Board of Supervisors Chairman Raymond S. Thompson declared that it appears present development techniques and controls everywhere have "reached the end of the line."

"Intellectual timidity, now, can be disastrous, for Lake Tahoe," Thompson said.

According to the county's planning director, Richard M. Heikka, panelists will be asked to consider such question as: are conventional subdivisions outmoded?; how are resources to be divided and who should get them?; and how can run-away development be controlled?

The planning director noted that present demands for the use of resources in the Lake Tahoe Basin have already exceeded the wildest planning imagination.

Specialists invited to participate include ecologists, sociologists, conservationists, architects, geologists, law-legislative, government, planning, water and health services.

Thompson said new concepts for environmental stability could come out of the meetings. "This we know," he added, "we must develop new ideas in governmental partnerships and get total involvement in preserving our environment."

Tax Forms Coming In Mail

The Nevada County assessor's office is in the process of mailing to area residents approximately 8,000 forms for veteran exemption claims, homeowner exemption claims, agricultural forms, business property declarations and welfare exemption forms.

Assessor Elton A. (Bub) Tobiasen has asked for the public to return the forms in the self-addressed envelope provided, as soon as possible.

Many homeowners, says Tobiasen, are under the impression that they will again receive a $70 cash refund for their taxes. This is not true; the refund was a "one time only" situation. Homeowners will receive, instead, an exemption of $750 of assessed valuation for the 1970-71 assessment year.

The deadline date for welfare, cemetery and church exemptions is March 15, Tobiasen notes. All other exemption forms must be in the assessor's office or postmarked by April 15. Late filings will not be accepted.

Anyone not receiving his forms by the first week in March should contact the county assessors office or Ray Craig Nevada County liaison officer, in the county government center, Truckee.

Meeting For Hot Liners

Sierra Hot Line will meet next Tuesday at Tahoe Truckee High School in Room 114. A new publicity format will be discussed.

The main topic of discussion will be the selection of representatives for the National Hot Line convention to be held in Los Angeles next month.

Students will take part in the Tuesday meeting via recorded radio spots telling of Hot Line's services. The final aspects of making the organization a non-profit one also will be discussed.

Winner of the event was a white Malamute Husky named Baranof owned by John Ramey of Kent, Washington. Several dogs tried, but most had to help along before they could move the heavy-laden sled. Area Girl Scouts Involved In Many Worthwhile Tasks Several Girl Scout troops in the Truckee Tahoe area have recently been involved in community projects for which they have received much praise.

Among these projects are the activities of Troop 124 in Kings Beach who have been selling American flags to the businesses and families for display during holidays. This troop has also been assisting their sponsor, the VFW Auxiliary, making favors for the Weimar Hospital near Auburn.

Troop leaders are Mrs. Dale Burt and Mrs. Robert Clark. Another Kings Beach troop, No. 214, made holiday greeting cards for Tahoe Forest Hospital patients.

Tahoe City troop No. 172 made tray favors for Tahoe Forest Hospital under the direction of leader Barbara Schlumpf, while troop No. 120, with leaders Mary Gruver and Pat Harder, also made favors for the hospital.

North Lake Tahoe Chamber Pot Shots

By BETTY LAYTON
There were no beautiful Jet Setters nor Bogner stretch pants nor colorful gondolas or trams to ride, but those assembled at the Truckee - Tahoe Airport last weekend to witness the 9th annual running of the sled dogs were pleasantly pleased at the show.

Dog racers not only endure hardships, they insist on them. Anyone who hasn't tried dog racing should! The pros that take home the money make it look easy but to begin with, the dogs have to be well trained and that takes a bit of doing itself.

Right from the start it was evident that the cross country competition last weekend was extremely tight and anyone could win. In order for local musher Dave Walling to walk off with the first place trophy for the two days top total time, he took a second place on Saturday and a third on Sunday.

Packed into Sunday's events were mut races, snowshoe races, snow sculpturing, weight pulling, and of course the famous grudge race between Professor John James, master climatologist, and Steve Atkins. They were full of good cheer racing the long, slightly soft snow trail, testing the three-dog teams which strained under the weight of each, but the dogs got them back from the tricky business of courageous sled dog racing.

There wasn't a particularly large crowd to root the racers on, and how to determine the course of the sport for years to come?

Anyone who has seen the dog races in Alaska mention the crowds of spectators lining the streets and purses of $50,000; yet, the sport in nine years at Tahoe has not.

Tahoe has not grown in proportion. Is it because the mechanical, exhaust-belching machines have replaced the human interest, physical prowess, skill and love between man's oldest and best friend, the dog?

Like the narrow-gauge railroad that is having its comeback, we foresee the revival of the sport which is at least growing in the number of racers. One racer proves that you don't have to live on acreage to raise dogs for racing. He lives in a very expensive home on a lagoon in Marin County, with no yard, and streets all around; yet he finished second in the two-day Class A competition and his daughter took second in the Class B competition. He has to watch his dogs to make sure they don't chase the ducks on the lagoon?

Liz Henderson the winner of the Class B competition, a lovely looking lithe lady from Medford, Oregon, was formerly from Southern California where her husband was a full-time car racer. They gave up all that for the dogs!

The airport proved a particularly excellent site for the races with lots of space for man, dogs, spectators, and concessions conveniently placed in the hangars out of the weather.

We had a particularly talented announcer, Martin Flynn, discjockey with KTRT, who kept the chatter lively for the two-day event. And Bob Daneri, long-enduring dog sports fan, has helped for nine years to stage the races. To Les Geary and all the other many devoted volunteers from Truckee and the lake (too numerous to mention here!) we appreciate the many man hours expended in making the 9th annual a memorable, successful event.

The 15th annual "St. Patrick's Day Fireman's Ball," sponsored by the Tahoe City Volunteer Fire Department will be held Saturday at the fire station in Tahoe City.

Admission of $2.50 per person will include a midnight buffet and dancing to live music from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m.

"Proceeds from the affair will help the fire department to purchase additional equipment for the protection of our community," notes Stephen G. Swigard, secretary.

Several door prizes will be awarded.

New Church Developing In Market Place

NEW YORK (AP) — A new kind of church-in-the-market place is developing across the country. And some religious planners think it eventually may replace the neighborhood parishes to some extent.

"It's a growing pattern, taking form in a variety of ways," says the Rev. Dr. Harvey Everett, of Valley Forge, Pa., parish development secretary of the American Baptist Convention.

Generally, the new operations are known as "shopping center ministries."

An estimated 150 to 250 of them have been started up in the last few years in the mushrooming suburban retail trade centers ringing American communities. "Shopping center ministries are here to stay," says Dr. Everett, who presided over the first national consultation on the trend, held last fall in Radnor, Pa., a Philadelphia suburb.

As some church leaders see it, the shopping-area "churches" may bring sort of shift back toward the old-time arrangement in which the town church stood at the center of commercial activity.

"There's some resemblance between these shopping center ministries and the 'church on the square' in the old New England town," Dr. Everett said. "But they're geared to people in a new age."

He said most of the market place ministries have been shaped independently of one another, experimenting with different methods, and reflect at least 20 different styles of operation.

These range from traditional-type center congregations, to "servant-style" ministries, working with employers and employees. Other programs are directed toward patrons, and in some cases, work from the start with architects and builders to develop the centers to enhance human values.

"It's usually more helpful when the ministries move in early and help shape the development's whole environment, in the interest of people who will be gathered there," Dr. Everett said.

The board of directors at the March 3, F.P.O.A. meeting purposed a committee of five persons, representative of each major street in town, to contact F.H.A. for facts and figures regarding the paving of all Floriston roads. Hopefully, all information will be prepared and ready for presentation at the annual property owners meeting in May.

Sligars return! "Los Angeles is no place to raise kids." That is the main reason for the return of Judy, Dick and their four children. The Funks and the Barbens are putting the Sligars up until they find residence - preferably in Reno. Sorry you sold your home here but may we say "we told you so!"

Good Luck to Tom Rogers, presiding officers and to the many enthusiastic teens with their new youth center. A worthwhile project for a great bunch of kids. Mr. B. and Miss you all and are proud of the fine way you are growing up - it doesn't seem possible that some of you will graduate this year - but we will be there to see you.

I ran across many people who enjoyed the Tahoe '70 edition, it was enjoyable and informative. We surly live in a growing area.

Curtain time is at 8:15 p.m. sharp.

Enjoying a vacation in siesta-land are Dick and Nancy Delantoni of Dollar Point. They are centering their activities around Mexico City and Guadalajara.

Visiting with Larry and Rosemary Lindsey at their Agate Bay home is Rosemary's mother, Mrs. Marie Fleming of Westwood.

Winner of the snowmobile prize awarded by the Tahoe-Truckee High School Boosters' Club is Miss Geri McGrath of South Tahoe. Miss McGrath is a new employee at Cal Neva Lodge and was much pleased at her good fortune when she was presented the keys to the snowmobile by 1970 Miss Sierra Snowflake and Miss USA Snowmobile Sharon Roberts.

The winner was chosen at a dinner held at Bacchi's Inn in Lake Forest last Wednesday evening.

Reno Executive Club To Hear Travel Talk

At a "dollar-a-day" it isn't normally possible to dine with President, Prime - ministers, Princes, Ambassadors, and even date some of the most charming young women in the world. But Sidney M. Rosen, a bachelor adventurer who is also a practicing attorney on the payroll of the Arizona attorney general, did those things - and had a wonderful time at the same time.

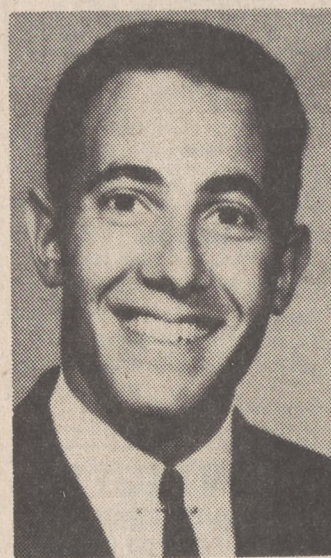

It is Sidney Rosen who will be the guest of members of the Reno Executive Club at its meeting today at the Nugget Convention Center. And, in keeping with his travels his address is entitled "Adventures Walking the World."

Rosen insists that walking is what he did most, although several other modes of transportation were involved in his 26-month trip which covered 91,000 miles and took him through 51 countries. There were times when he had to do something beside walk, for there were waters to cross. In these instances fishing junks were employed - most of them hand-operated. Other methods of travel included helicopters, rickshaws, rails and camels.

Before Rosen started he budgeted the trip - from necessity. He had to do it all at an average cost of a dollar a day - excluding, of course, the many packs of films he started with.

To help defray expense he worked at various things - picking up a few dollars here and there which helped propel him to his next considered step. In turn he was journalist, correspondent, scientist - researcher - almost anything that conditions and situations demanded.

Now, Rosen is again practicing law. That is when he isn't filling the consistent demands by various organizations for an appearance and the story of his travels. In this regard, his early training helps. While attending college, he was the Arizona State debate champion and also their extemporaneous speaking champion.

Nevada Agency Cuts Six Floors Off The Top Of Harrah's Hotel

By FLORENCE BURGE
CRYSTAL BAY - Some six stories must be sliced off a 31-story high-rise tower planned for Harrah's at Stateline, South Shore, according to a development plan for the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe which was adopted Friday by Nevada Tahoe Regional Planning Agency (NTRPA).

The Nevada Tahoe Regional Plan and six ordinances to establish minimum controls were adopted at a special meeting held at Cal Neva Lodge. The general plan takes effect immediately, while the ordinances do not become effective for 60 days.

Agency member Walter McKenzie was author of the height limitation amendment which was voted into the ordinance unanimously by the agency.

It restricts building height limits in the entire Nevada portion of the Lake Tahoe Basin to 90 feet or 10 feet below the tallest tree, whichever is greater.

An additional bonus of 10 feet for every 300 feet setback from the lake applies solely to properly zoned gambling or resort hotels proximate to the state line.

"I roughly estimate that this would allow the Crystal Bay Club, for instance, to construct a hotel of approximately 12 stories," said McKenzie.

"One of the best points about this restriction," said McKenzie, "is that it gives the opportunity of maintaining a view for all."

The restriction would slice an estimated six stories off the top of the proposed Harrah's Hotel at Stateline. Harrah's has already secured a special use permit from Douglas County to build the hotel, but McKenzie said he believes the general plan restriction will take precedence and the special use permit will have to conform.

The general plan, submitted by Raymond M. Smith, AIP, and Associates, sets minimum standards for development throughout the Nevada Tahoe region. The ordinance enacting the plan gives city or county local governments 90 days to revise their plans and related zoning ordinances which affect the territory within the region. It also allows local governments to adopt and enforce equal or higher standards.

Ordinances adopted establish land use categories, population density controls and requirements for variances and special use permits as well as building permits; minimum standards for land development; minimum standards for planned unit developments; regulations and standards for mobile home parks and recreational vehicle parks; regulations and standards for outdoor signs and billboards; and requirements for issuance of stop orders in certain cases.

NTRPA attorney Richard Hanna explained the latter ordinance "puts teeth into the work of the agency in supervision of the development at Lake Tahoe." Failure to obey a stop order constitutes a misdemeanor.

The plan as adopted included several minor changes recommended by the NTRPA Advisory Planning Commission (APC) after weeks of public hearings.

Changes were read publicly at the meeting by Hanna, then discussed by agency members, members of the audience and Smith before being made a part of the official general plan.

"The plan now shifts ownership from Smith to the people of Nevada," said NTRPA Chairman Ivan Sack at the conclusion of the reading of recommended changes.

Previous to the plan's adoption, members of the agency heard last minute appeals from a logging representative, developers and conservationists.

Chairman Ivan Sack commended students Ann Cathcart of the University of Nevada and Gene Fong of Wooster High School. Both represented various conservation groups on and off their respective campuses.

PROTESTS LIMITATIONS - George Allison, attorney for Nathan Jacobson of Kings Castle Hotel, tells agency architects will have to review Jacobson's plans for 10 or 11 story condominiums or "take it to court."

EXPLAINS A POINT - Planner Raymond A. Smith, author of the Nevada Tahoe General Plan, explains a point during discussion of the plan prior to its adoption.

"We're grateful for the students to take such a keen interest in their heritage," said Sack. In spite of the fact that rules of the meeting stipulated the agency did not have to hear more from the public unless it was a new suggestion, every member of the audience who wished to speak was given time. Many who had been before the APC at earlier public hearings reiterated their pleas.

Primary bone of contention besides the height limitation was the density proposal. Smith explained that in arriving at the final recommended 15 dwelling units per acre in medium density residential units, statistics had been gathered, suggestions of conservationists and developers alike had been taken into account and the figure arrived at as the most reasonable.

"Most of the developments are in the 12-18 units per acre range," Smith said. "The average is 14.8 and the better ones show 12-14 units per acre. Naturally the higher the density the less parking space there is."

A 15 percent bonus for developers constructing planned unit developments is provided in the density ordinance. This could bring the density to 17.5 units per acre. Smith said the study of multiple developments at Incline showed most ranged from 8.5 to 21.6 units per acre.

Among those appearing at the meeting was Nevada Sen. Coe Swobe. He expressed satisfaction with the 15 unit per acre density limitation terming it a "reasonable compromise."

Also appearing was William Sanford Jr., attorney for Feather River Lumber Co. The lumber company protested the logging ban in the general plan, claiming the agency does not have the right to take away private property without just compensation. The company owns some 1,100 acres at about the 8,000 foot level above Incline Village.

Sack announced the California agency, which allows logging in its regional Tahoe Basin territory, had set up a committee to make recommendations regarding the harvesting of timber. He said laws in regard to such harvesting in the entire basin are expected to be set up by this spring.

"As a forester myself," said Sack, a member of the agency logging committee, "it doesn't make much sense leaving a tree to die in five or 10 years without harvesting it."

"This plan can and will be amended," he concluded, recommending that no change be made in the Nevada Plan's logging stipulation at this time.

George Allison, attorney appearing for Kings Castle President Nate Jacobson, protested both the height limit and the density limit of the General plan.

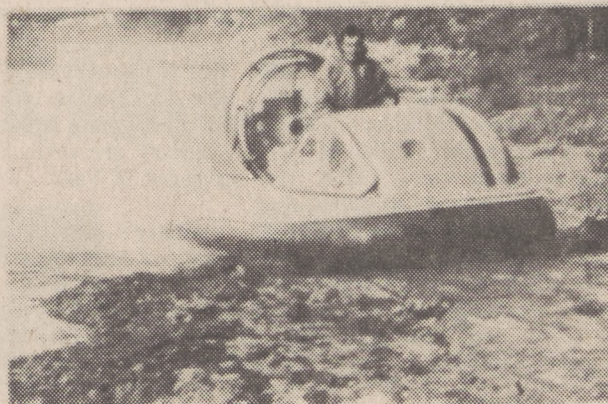

He charged that a zoning change on Jacobson's property at Incline Village, across Lakeshore Boulevard from the hotel, had "no relation to the health, safety or the welfare of the people." Present zoning is 22 units per acre.

Sack said the bi-state Tahoe Regional Planning Agency's Advisory Planning Commission will hear and recommend additional changes to the plans for both Nevada and California.

"We're going into cold storage now," said Sack, "hopefully for resurrection in the very near future."

The official action of the California and Nevada governors and their appointments to the bi-state agency are expected this month at which time there will be an organizational meeting and the Nevada General Plan will become a part of the bi-state agency plans.

Will Head Fund Drive

Judge Clark J. Guild, 82, who nearly 30 years ago headed a campaign to establish the Nevada State Museum in the old Carson City Mint, today is again at the helm of a campaign to raise funds for construction of a large annex.

Speaking of his "dream" which has materialized and developed far beyond his expectations, Guild noted "it (museum) has now become one of the truly outstanding museums in these United States, a fact more widely recognized outside Nevada than by our own citizens."

"Its exhibits, seen now by almost half a million people a year from all over the world, have received commendation by countless authorities and their creators are in demand for lectures, instruction and assistance throughout the West."

AT CONVENTION
... John Marean

To Present Two Papers

John Marean, science and mathematics teacher at Incline High School left today for Cincinnati, Ohio where he will be participating in two meetings.

Marean will present two papers at the National Science Teachers Convention March 14 through 17. The papers concern the textbooks, Physical Science and Earth Science, which he co-authored and which are in use now in public schools. He is a past president of NST.

Prior to the teachers' convention, he will be attending a two-day workshop on "Environmental Education For Everyone." The workshop will gather some 100 science teachers to study varied approaches and aspects of the subject.

Michael Brewer, vice president of Resources for the Future, Washington, D. C. will be principal speaker. A field trip for all participants will be made to the Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center.

Marean said the workshop features heavy emphasis on youth involvement in environmental action. One session, "Youth Views of Environmental Needs," will be presented by college students who will later talk about "where it's at" for them in environmental action and seek ways they can carry out their ideas.

Ruth Stephenson and Jimmie Hume were united in marriage at an 11 o'clock ceremony performed by Rev. Al Frye at the Presbyterian Church at Incline Friday March 6.

For her wedding the bride chose a lime green soft leather suit with shocking pink blouse, sash and shoes.

Mrs. Merv Wangenheim was the bride's attendant and wore an orange bolero suit trimmed in gold braid.

Rocky Hume, Jimmie's uncle, was the best man.

A reception and champagne luncheon was held at the Hume's home immediately following the lovely informal wedding.

Coming from Palm Springs to attend the wedding were Jimmie's uncle and aunt, Rock and Grace Hume. They spent several days at Tahoe before returning home.

"Happy is the bride, the sun shines on" - old saying, but a dazzling sunlit day, and a calm blue beautiful lake, provided the setting for Ruth and Jimmie's wedding day.

On the lighter side, we think Jimmie, who is not known among friends for punctuality, must have been singing "Get Me To The Church On Time" because it was a prompt, on the dot, ceremony.

Again, thanks, Ruth and Jimmie, for remembering Bethal and every wish for happiness.

Casa d'Eleganza is the new shop that Contessa Angela Desideri will open in Reno, and Lake Tahoe, this month. Joining the Contessa in her venture is well known Reno-Tahoeite, Jerry Bates. Champagne, caviar and haute couture will be synonymous at the Casa.

Pieter Van Tassel was a visitor at the home of his mother, Bethel, in Reno from Walnut Creek over the weekend. Pieter attends Diablo Valley College.

Ray and Louise Smith of Reno attended the Stephenson-Hume wedding and reception.

Virginia and Gary Spitzer of Sunnyvale were visitors to their parents, Rose and Fred Baker at Tahoe Vista last weekend.

Barbara Jean Neville and James Mains were married at the home of her parents, Gina and Richard Neville, of Incline and Reno. The early afternoon A. Cadman Garreston, DD of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of chantilly lace with long sleeves, tiered lace skirt and chapel train. Her shoulder length veil of silk illusion was held by a tiara of silk flowers and seed pearls. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of white carnations and red roses.

Ina Hamlin was matron of honor and Don Lunsford best man. The bride's brother, Barry Neville, of Los Angeles, was usher.

A reception at the Reno Elks Club followed the ceremony. Barbara is a graduate of Earl Wooster High and is employed at Gina's Fashions with her mother. The bride groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Pierce of Dayton, Ohio and is employed at Harolds Club.

The couple is at home in Reno after a trip to Southern California.

Jerry and Joe Donnelly of San Rafael were guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Berner at Crystal Bay last weekend.

Inez Jordan of Incline Village attended a meeting of worthy matrons of the Order of East-vada City on Sunday.

"Our" girls, Dorothy Mercer and Ella Mae Porter of Incline Beach participated in the snowmobile races at Incline sponsored by the Kings Castle.

Dorothy was first in A Main, Class C and 4th in Class B, Powder Puff while Ella Mae was 3rd Class B, second in A Main Class C, both winning trophies and money.

This weekend they race at Chester and on the 15th they race at West Yellowstone.

Note from the nomads of Tahoe R & R - better known as Ruth and Dick Lavery, who wrote from Mazatlan, Mexico; they are still enjoying sunny Mexico while reading about the snow at Tahoe (what snow?) They expect to join Theresa and Tom Sutton of Incline Village shortly who are also Mexico vacationers, June and Dick Wright are visiting the Larverys from Tahoe.

Dick busy hunting and Ruth busy helping clean game and entertain. They have also met the Andy Anderson who were with Ethel and Larry Wood who were the original owners of "The Woods" at Tahoe Vista. Dick Joseph and his sisters from Truckee were recent visitors.

Ruth says they think most of Lake Tahoe's residents are in Mexico, hardly see any natives. Will be back at Tahoe in another two or three weeks.

Kay Wing of Kings Beach has returned from Las Vegas after spending a week there on official VFW Auxiliary business. The main reason for the trip was to help entertain the National VFW Auxiliary president, Erline Mayberry of North Carolina.

The auxiliary's color guard met the national president at the airport and four police escorted the parade of cars from there to the Desert Inn where Miss Mayberry stayed. A banquet in her honor, the Gene Kelly Show, and a trip through Nellis Air Force Base were highlights of the trip.

Donna Killian, member of Lake

Tahoe Auxiliary and a former resident of Incline Village who is now residing in Kansas, and Kay Wing, were color bearers at the airport when Miss Mayberry arrived.

Channel 8 televised the color guard, reception and motorcade.

The annual Hat Party given by the Women's Club of North Tahoe will be held at the Crystal Bay Club Monday, March 30 at noon. Theme for the hats will be television commercials. Jacquie Black, Ardith Burrill and Marguerite Ashton are cochairmen for the affair which will benefit the Heart Fund. A donation of $2.75 will be asked. Come and wear your hat!

After lunch, Rose exhibited her handwork of art, her workshop, and pieces of statuary which is being made with beads of various types. She briefly outlined her start in this work as therapy after various accidents which would have left her crippled

The formation of the new board has already been approved by the Reno and the Nevada State Boards of Realtors. The local group will draw up by-laws and submit them to the National Association of Real Estate Boards for approval at its meeting in May.

The new group will be composed of realtors in that portion of Washoe County which lies in the Tahoe Basin.

In other business Barbara Phillips, Fred Schultz, Wes Howell, Ed Malley and Rod Campbell were elected to the IVMLS board of directors. The directors named Barbara Phillips, chairman; Rod Campbell secretary and Wes Howell, treasurer.

Schultz said the first annual installation of officers of IVMLS will be held Thursday, March 12, 7:30 p.m. at Crystal Bay Club.

Incline — District Versus Incorporation

Editor's Note: The following article was written by three University of Nevada students as a part of their economics class in public finance.

Well researched over a period of several months last fall and winter, the article divulges facts which residents may find pertinent, especially in light of hearings on a request for Incline water and sewer rate increases. The hearings are being held this week before the Public Service Commission at the request of the Incline Village Improvement District.

While the opinions expressed in this article do not necessarily reflect the opinions of this newspaper, readers may find them thought provoking.

By Richard W. Sherwood, Robert L. Cademartori, Greg Nixon

Is Incline Village General Improvement District economically feasible?

This was the question we investigated and at this point one statement can be made with certainty. A conflict of interest does assuredly exist.

We traveled to Incline intermittently through the semester interviewing: Vaughn Burlingham, who represents Boise-Cascade, the developer of Incline Village; W. W. White, who is head of the Incline Village General Improvement District; Gordon Reddall, representing the Nevada North Shore Property Owners Association; Charles Springer, attorney representing the residents of Incline Village; Florence Burge, editor of the Incline Village Newspaper; Raymond M. Smith, AIP, long time planner in Tahoe area; Carl Shaff, principal of Incline schools; Bill Harlan a realtor in the Incline area; and Kermit McMillan, office manager at Incline Village for Incline Village General Improvement District.

We listened as they referred to each other with colorful terms and presented to us their specific interest with Incline Village and its improvement district. Before elaborating on the opposing views they offered we feel a familiarization of the recent history of Incline, its present governing body, and the Nevada Revised Statutes No. 318 which explains the jurisdiction of a general improvement district must be presented.

Incline Village evolved in 1959 when 9,000 acres of north Lake Tahoe property was purchased by Incline Village Corp., under the ownership of Art Wood. It was the largest, single development at the Lake.

Within a few years the developer ran short on funds and began investigation on the possibility of forming a special district to add finances for the completion of the project.

Incline Village Corp. wanted to make this a complete community with all the conveniences - including construction of streets, sewers, water lines, recreational facilities, storm drainage facilities, and sidewalks. The electricity was provided by Sierra Pacific Power Company in Reno.

In order to form this district many requirements had to be met under the Nevada Revised Statutes No. 318 concerning general improvement districts.

The statute stipulates that before the district can exist the county board of commissioners must be convinced of its economic feasibility and financial stability.

A master plan of future development for the proposed district was presented the Washoe County Board Commissioners and put it shortly, was approved for status as a special district.

As a result, the Incline Village General Improvement District was formed with five appointed residents of Incline to form the first board of trustees.

These men were first appointed by the Washoe County Commissioners. Thereafter they are elected by the residents of the district.

Each candidate must be a resident of Incline Village and a qualified voter of the state. Trustees serve for a four year term with staggered expiration dates. The five trustees select a chairman, who is one of them. They also name a secretary-treasurer who is not required to be an elected member.

The board of trustees is the administrative directorate, and therefore exercises full authority to pass resolutions and ordinances to manage the district. They are to manage the district. They are comparable to a city council. And they are accountable to the county commissioners for their actions.

We would like to interject here with a comment concerning the conflict of interest issue we raised in the introduction. A majority of the board of trustees are developers of the Incline area.

Due to this it is felt by McMillan, that the board is biased concerning its decision on some of the priorities of improvements made by the Incline Village General Improvement District.

However, these men are residents of Incline and it is probably nearly impossible to find trustees who would be completely objective in their policy.

The District has four sources and uses of income: (1) water and sewerage fees charged the residents, (2) the ad valorem tax on property, (3) public improvement bonds, (4) collection of assessments. The collection of assessments is regulated by state statutes regarding interest and bond discount rates. The limitations are 7 per cent for interest rates and 10 per cent for bond discount. Most of the bond issues mature in 15 years.

The decision-making procedure of the trustees comes under the auspices of the Public Service Commission pertaining to water and sewerage and the State Bond Council supervising the legality of bond proceedings.

Prior to issuance of any bond two public hearings are held; one to decide improvements to be made and the other to determine assessments to be levied against property owners.

In 1960 the District presented its first bond issue for $5,000,000. The revenue was used to construct roads, sewers, and water facilities.

Shortly thereafter, a revenue bond issue was used to buy and develop Incline Village's private beach, Incline Village Corp. charged residents $50 a year for use of the beach. This actually amounted to Incline Village Incorporated selling the beach to their private residents.

It should be further noted that under the Nevada Revised Statutes, bond indebtedness can not exceed 50 per cent of the land and improvement valuation.

In 1968 Boise Cascade Corp. bought 5600 acres of the original 9000 acres. A special use permit, issued by the Washoe County Commissioners, has enabled Boise Cascade to construct multiple dwellings on a large piece of property and have surrounding land undisturbed and natural.

The Incline developers feel this "cluster development" assures residents and concerned people of the best method of preserving and developing Lake Tahoe. Boise Cascade plans to leave open or dedicate for greenbelt 76 per cent of the total 5617 acres they originally owned.

One of the major problems which has confronted the Incline area is the tremendous rise in the taxes assessed upon the properties. We have found many cases where the increase has been as much as 300 to 500 per cent above the last assessment.

With the new assessment we found that of the $5,000 of every $100 maximum which can be charged by law the people are paying $4,951. Of the $4,951 only $50 is appropriated to Incline Village General Improvement bond.

What has caused such an increase? Here is an organization, the North Shore Property Owners Association, which is fighting the great increase. Their basic argument lies in the creation of artificial demands caused by large development companies, and a poor job of procedure by the county commissioner in making the assessment.

An artificial demand is said to have been created by extensive advertising done by realtors and large development companies like Trimont Builders, Boise Cascade, and General American Development Company, by reaching down to San Francisco and Los Angeles to find buyers and creating a "heaven" in the mountains.

Belief has it that the demand for such a utopian escape heaven is artificial. With these demands there is pressure to build more, yet the space becomes less, and therefore the price is higher.

Now if these demands were artificial, then actually a private owner could not sell his home for this market value. Yet six months ago a lake front home owner privately sold his home for $309,000. Fifteen years ago a teacher at the Incline school bought a similar lake front home for $15,000. This is not artificial, this is real.

As far as how good an assessment job was done we believe this is where the county fell a little short. At a meeting concerning the tax problem, many people reported receiving new assessments without even seeing an assessor on the property area itself. By law the assessor must inspect the property, check improvements, and depreciation etc.

A point which the people are overlooking must be taken into account at this time. Much of the tax increase is believed to have been brought about by the people themselves. Many of the improvements which have taken place have been a direct demand by IVGID Trustees upon Boise Cascade.

All the building done by Boise was required by IVGID to have underground utilities. They also required Boise to revegetate all shrubs and growth which they dug up in the building process. Trustees also required Boise to lessen the slope on the Mt. Rose Highway. The highway has been there since the "year one" yet this is what the trustees wanted.

With improvements like this you know the value of the property is going to increase.

Another problem concerning taxes is that the taxes which are paid out are really not being returned in as much proportion as those taxes paid by people who live in Reno.

Oddly enough though this has not yet come to be as much of a concern as the amount being paid. The people are not united enough in a community type organization to effectively realize this. But we felt it is a point to mention.

Since Incline is more of a vacation resort spot taxes used for welfare, schools, police power and other similar services realized by those living in Reno are not realized by those in Incline. Essentially, some portion of the taxes paid in Incline are helping pay for Reno's schools, social security benefits and hospitals.

Looking now at another thorn in the side is the Boise Cascade's progress and their effects on the problems of the community and also problems which they have created. We'd like to take a moment and raise a point not defending Boise Cascade.

North Lake Tahoe is a much sought after place to live. It truly is a beauty spot in our country and there is no real way that one can stop its development. If Boise had not been there first it would have been another development company. The question is, how good of a job have they done?

When they first moved in we found they did sneak by and develop a section (Section 1) that was done in a poor manner, considering fulfilling the needs of the people. Seemingly their only aim was to make the money. After that the Reno Sparks and Washoe County Planning Commission laid down the law on their progress and procedure. This is where we'll start.

After seeing Vaughn Burlingham, Boise Cascade's project manager, we became fully aware that quite a bit of planning has gone into the Incline development area.

Boise's researchers figured out how much development the different areas could hold considering soil erosion, etc.; then they obtained legal go ahead to build. As it has turned out, even though they have been given the go ahead on the number of lots they could develop they have developed considerably less than planned. They have been blasted by an ecological protest group, which received much publicity, yet they do feel they have done a good job and this is agreed with by the planning commission.

In their process of Incline Village Development a few problems, have been created. The two biggest problems seem to be the pollution of the lake and sewage removal.

One proposal for the disposal of the sewage was its purification and then returning it to the lake from which it came.

The big financial aspect is that the water drawn out of the lake must be paid for. If it could be returned to the lake, in most cases purer than when it was taken out, there would be little water cost to the people, who incidentally are going to be hit with another water rate increase.

This however is not the politically acceptable way and from most of the information gathered it will be a long time before the people of the world will ever allow purified sewage water to be returned to the original place. This would not pollute the lake.

The biggest threat of the pollution of the lake is seen by the runoff water and impurities on the ground which are placed there by the fact that people are living on the land surrounding the lake.

In conclusion, we must deal with the interests, attitudes and feelings of the citizens at Incline. We must also state the two most current problems of the District; that of the high rate on real estate taxes and the paying of services by the residents who, in turn, are not receiving these services. The final question that must be answered is the feasibility of incorporating the Incline district.

In looking at the attitudes of the residents of Incline we must bear in mind that they, for the most part, are in the high income bracket. They consider their home at Incline as a nice little place where they can get away from the hustle and bustle of taxes, politics and domestic problems.

As a matter of fact, the resident is involved in an area that is experiencing the growing pains of a would-be city. Therefore, the individual has no interest in the matters of Incline which he faces as a citizen of a city. This can be seen by the lack of attendance at meetings and public hearing of the special districts. It also has been noted that there is a lack of knowledge concerning the special district by the typical resident.

The Tahoe region offers the unique quality of a beautiful national recreation area with the exciting gambling casinos that offer get rich quick fantasies. Because the land surrounding the Lake Tahoe region is choice land the assessment value and, therefore, the taxes, on this real estate is high.

It is well known that the residents of Incline are paying for hospitals, schools, social security and law enforcement.

However, they must travel 35 miles for hospital care; they have two schools in the area; they, by in large, are wealthy enough to support themselves in their declining years and lastly; they have one sheriff assisted by a few deputies.

The special district is, in short, not doing the job as an efficient government body, but to incorporate would cost the residents even more than running the area as a district.

As a matter of fact, the people in Incline are currently being charged $4,951 in total taxes, per $100 of which $50 is appropriate to the Improvement District.

Should the Incline area incorporate, the only rate that would change would be an increase in the tax rate of services which are currently being provided by the Incline General Improvement District. The difference in the increase would bring the total taxes over the maximum $5 per $100 limit. Therefore, the only feasible type of government for the Incline area is that of the special district.

In closing we feel that some facts are pertinent in expressing the growth and diversified land holdings in the Incline area.

In 1968-69 the assessed valuation of the Incline Village General Improvement District was 21 million. This figure was supplied by Wallace M. White, who also pointed out that the assessment figure exceeds the value of more than 10 counties in Nevada.

The master plan at Incline calls for a population of 25,000 people when fully developed. There are 3500 permanent residents and on weekends this increased to 6500. By 1980, White predicts Incline will have 20,000 people in its district.

Another interesting sidelight White revealed to us was that $10 million of the Incline debentures are owned by Columbia University of New York. It seems someone thinks that Incline will be growing enough to substantiate a very long-term, secure investment.

Bank Accounts: Secret Switzerland Attraction

ZURICH, Switzerland, (AP) - Watches, yodeling, and contented cows for years have made up the tourist image of Switzerland. Lately there has been an unadvertised addition: Secret Swiss bank accounts.

Unlike the traditional scenery, the bank accounts have become a thorny issue in U.S.-Swiss relations, normally as untroubled as Lake Zurich on a summer day.

United States officials charge illicit funds from organized crime are being increasingly routed into Switzerland. Some estimate the total may run to several hundred million dollars annually. Swiss official sources call such figures exaggerated.

The U.S. charges have been dramatized by a recent large-scale swindle of the U.S. government in which the most important defendants, convicted by a Washington District Court, channeled more than $3.3 million into secret Swiss bank accounts.

Legislation is being prepared in the United States to curb abuse of secret foreign accounts. Swiss-American talks in Washington could lead to a judicial assistance treaty to help track down criminal funds in Switzerland.

The mere definition of crime is producing headaches. Forgery in the United States is not necessarily identical with forgery under Swiss law. Here it is considered a "civil offense" although violators can draw stiff penalties.

What the Swiss consider crime and what they do not is of major importance in breaking the walls of bank secrecy. The Federal Banking Act provides for jail terms of up to six months and fines of up to 20,000 francs or $8,600 for any Swiss banking employee violating secrecy rules. Only a court decision can release a banker from his professional obligations.

In clearcut criminal cases, a court order is readily available. American diplomats in Switzerland confirm that even without a judicial assistance treaty they regularly have obtained help from Swiss authorities in such matters. But a treaty, they say, would help speed this process.

Swiss officials say an American gangster charged with an "ordinary crime" in a federal indictment has virtually no chance that his secret Swiss bank account will remain hidden to U.S. investigators. If gangsters are indicted merely on tax charges, any probe in Switzerland is automatically barred.

"On such charges, Swiss authorities cannot take any action," explained Pierre Nuss-baumer of the Foreign Ministry. "Swiss banks are forbidden to divulge information in tax matters to our authorities. The same applies, of course, for any inquiry in this field from abroad. The problems would be very simple if the U.S. judicial scheme was modified."

Samuel Schweizer, chairman of the Swiss Bank Corp. and dean of the country's commercial bankers, says it is primarily up to the United States to change its laws to curb domestic corruption rather than for Switzerland to modify its legislation.

"Unfortunately, we do not know the Mafia people who come to Switzerland to open a bank account," observer Philippe de Weck, director general of the Union Bank of Switzerland, the country's largest.

"Americans constantly mix tax matters with aspects of the criminal code."

"Because they cannot get hold of their gangsters on ordinary criminal charges they try it via a fiscal investigation."

Felix W. Schulthess, chairman of the Swiss Credit Bank, says he agrees with the view of an American expert that U.S. funds flowing into Switzerland are mainly those of law-abiding people looking for a "maximum of security."

Swiss banks have been a depository for foreign capital for decades. An early peak came in the 1930s when the Nazis started their programs and Jews sent money abroad to prepare for emigration.

In that period, Swiss bank secrecy, proclaimed as a "demonstration of the freedom and privacy of the individual," was codified in the Federal Banking Act. It was largely aimed against sleuths sent from Germany and Italy to track assets or would-be refugees.

Swiss banks also introduced "numbered accounts" to provide greater discretion about clients. The owners of numbered accounts are known only to a few executives of a bank branch but they lack complete anonymity. Legal protection is the same as for an ordinary account.

Credit Cards For Dogs?

TROY, Mich. (AP) - Scanning an application blank he received by mail, Donald L. Boyd remarked to his wife: "Sometimes I think they would give these credit cards to a dog."

Mrs. Boyd said she didn't think it was quite that simple. Boyd said he'd prove it.

And that's how Tareytown, the Boyd Dalmatian, came to obtain a credit card from a department store.

Boyd, a supervisor in a motor company financial department, said he gave the Dalmatian's name on the application blank as Tareytown Boyd, her age as 2.7 years, and her occupation as "watchdog."

He said he listed neither a Social Security number nor an income, but the credit card came through promptly.

Boyd said the dog frequently receives circulars describing her as a "preferred customer" and urging her to exercise her credit.

Deserters Returning To United States

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - American deserters, homesick and sometimes turning to crime, are returning to the United States, although they face probable trouble with the law there.

There is no general exodus under way, but a spokesman at the U.S. Embassy said today "They're coming in to get their tickets at the rate of one a week, at the moment."

Why are they leaving what seems to be a haven of peace and freedom after deserting from Vietnam and West Germany?

"Some of them have just not found what they expected," said government psychologist Kristina Nystroem, who deals with the deserters' problems. "Twenty per cent get by on dishwashing and similar jobs, the sort of thing they have to do before graduating to better jobs."

She conceded that about 10 per cent of the dissenters have been booked for criminal offenses.

"Things like shoplifting and drug offenses reflect on the rest," she said. "It gets played up in the papers and you can't get them proper work and a good place to live."

Miss Nystroem points to family problems as the main reason for deserters going home.

"Anyhow, they may be leaving, but there are more coming in all the time," she said.

Since a young American serviceman, Ray Jones III, arrived here on April 11, 1967, after deserting his unit in West Germany, 441 American deserters have contacted Swedish immigration authorities.

Controls Put Inflation 'On The Run'

NEW YORK (AP) - The Treasury Department's No. 2 man said today inflation is on the run and stronger government efforts to restrain it would only result in recession and higher unemployment.

"The central fact is that economic overheating and demand-pull inflation have been brought under control," Undersecretary Charles E. Walker said. "In all probability, economic historians will record that the boom finally crested out in the third quarter of 1969."

Walker's speech was prepared for delivery to the financial conference of the National Industrial Conference Board here.

Since the third - July through September - quarter, Walker said, "the economy has been on a plateau" of approximately equal increases and declines in its various sectors, with the exception of the crippled private housing industry.

"This hiatus in economic growth, which should continue well into 1970, is not to be decelerated," he said. "It can be the economics pause that refreshes." It will set the stage for healthy and balanced growth in the years ahead. It is the uncomfortable but necessary transition from overheating and demand-pull inflation to stable wage and price patterns."

He contended the nature of the inflation has changed, from the classic demand-pull, "too much money chasing too few goods" and thus pulling the prices up - to cost-push. In the latter stage, he said, prices continue to rise for a time although unemployment rises, workers work shorter weeks and sales are sluggish. Businessmen feel the pinch of curtailed profits.

Because demand for new goods is slackening, he said, addition government restraint would only cut back industrial output further, intensifying the problems of sluggish sales and inventory buildups and resulting ultimately in high unemployment and recession.

Change For Better

KALISPELL, Mont. (AP) - Wilbur Korb, the blind operator of a newspaper stand at the post office, didn't realize he was receiving some unusual "dollar bills" after he and his wife, Pauline, also blind, were involved in a collision at their home.

Mrs. Korb required surgery and is recuperating at their home in this northwestern Montana community.

After Korb began to notice that people kept wanting change for "dollar bills," his banker explained that many had been $5, $10 and $20 bills. The banker said his customers' technique had provided Korb with an extra $1,254 to help with hospital bills.

Modesto Farmer Predicts Good Year For Nuts

MODESTO (AP) - Rejoice, all you pistachio ice cream nuts. A farm expert says there are prospects of pest-free pistachios.

Pistachios presently are periled by plenty of problems, ranging from wet feet to crown rot.

But, experts say, none are insurmountable.

"Pistachios do not tolerate wet feet," says Karl W. Opitz, University of California horticulturalist. Wet feet can be avoided by not planting them in mud puddles, or other areas of poor drainage.

Crown rot also can be avoided by planting in well drained soil, as it is dampness that fosters the rot organism.

The only other pistachio plague, verticillium wilt, normally can be avoided by not planting the trees in ground that has been cultivated or vegetated, which are verticillium-susceptible.

There's only one insect with a fondness for pistachios, the chalcid, but it inhabits only a small area near Chico and is the object of an eradication drive.

While root knot nematodes can cause setbacks, they can be done in by fumigation.

Thus by judicious selection of planting sites and a bit of fumigating, it should be possible to prosper in the pistachio game.

At a recent growers meeting, experts noted that California has an advantage over other areas, pistachio-wise. The bulk of the crop comes from Greece, India and Iran. But they're smaller, and because of insect damage and improper handling the shells must be dyed to hide the mottled shells.

A pistachio grove can reach the break-even point in only six years, but doesn't hit full production until after 20-25 years. The trees produce heavy crops one year, little or none the next. Only the females bear fruit. Pistachio nuts are small, with a thin shell that opens naturally upon reaching maturity. They are roasted before eating, and are popular as an ice cream flavoring.

Marketing prospects, says Opitz, are good. "There is room for at least 15,000 more acres in California without any danger of disturbing the present economic picture."

Another speaker said the outer shell is a nutritious cattle food, richer than barley, adding: "We anticipate the sale of the hulls - when there is a sufficient volume processed in California - will pay a large portion of the cost of dehulling, roasting and packaging."

Unhulled nuts sell for about 60 cents a pound and the processed product goes for about 90.

And the little goodies are practically like an annuity. The trees produce for hundreds of years, averaging 100-150 pounds of nuts a year.

Gun Transport Said O.K.

SAN FRANCISCO - Most Americans moving from one state to another can still take their guns with them, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

The IRS statement is in response to recent newspaper stories quoting a "U. S. treasury agent" as saying that Federal gun laws prohibit anyone changing his residence to another State from personally transporting his firearms.

The Gun Control Act of 1968 and a related statute, Title VII of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act, do not interfere with the average hunter, sportsman or gun owner taking his firearms to another state either permanently because of a change of residence, or temporarily, such as on a hunting trip.

Double Shot Aimed At Mars

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says it will try for the first time next year to place two spacecraft in orbit around the planet Mars.

The mission goals require that the Mariner spacecraft continue to send back data for about three months, while orbiting the planet.

This period will allow enough time for the 2,200-pound spacecraft, equipped with television cameras and other experiments, to study about 70 per cent of the planet's surface from an altitude of about 1,000 miles, and also to observe selected areas as they appear to change with the Martian seasons.

After the three-month operational period, however, both spacecraft are to continue to orbit Mars for at least 17 years.

Eventually the gravitational attraction of Mars will draw them down to crash into the planet. However, the National Academy of Sciences and the Space Sciences Board have specified that the surface of Mars must not be contaminated until several carefully-sterilized unmanned Viking craft have been landed to determine whether any form of life exists there.

This type of surface exploration by remote control is expected to continue from 1973 through 1988, hence the 17-year orbital requirement for the next spacecraft, Mariners 8 and 9.

The first Mariner launch was a failure. Mariner 2 and 5 flew past Venus, in 1962 and 1967. Mariner 4 flew past Mars in 1965 to obtain the first close-up pictures of the planet.

Last year Mariners 6 and 7 flew within 2,130 miles of Mars and sent back some 200 pictures and other data showing the planet to be heavily cratered, bleak, cold, dry, almost airless and generally hostile to earth-style life forms.

NASA said the first spacecraft to orbit Mars are to be launched from Kennedy Space Center, Fla., by Atlas-Centaur rockets.

Pray For Priests

ROME (AP) - Pope Paul VI urged Roman Catholics Sunday to "pray for priests, for their sanctity, faithfulness and total and exclusive dedication to your service."

Vatican sources said that although he did not mention it directly, it was intended as an appeal by the pontiff to obey his insistence on priestly celibacy.

'Idiot's Delight' New Technique Perfected

Trims Actor

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Actor Jack Lemmon says he has lost 14 pounds training for his return to the stage at a local theater March 17 in Robert F. Sherwood's 1936 Pulitzer Prize winner "Idiot's Delight."

Lemmon made his last stage appearance 10 years ago in New York.

The "Idiot's Delight" revival is scheduled for a six-week run at the Ahmanson theater. Lemmon said Wednesday it might then go to New York, but that he could not afford to take too much time off from his lucrative movie chores.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Smithsonian Institution for the past 10 years has been perfecting a technique of freeze-dry preservation of smaller animal, reptile and fish exhibits.

The method by - passes the conventional mounting procedures of skinning and drying and in the process reduces shrinking to a minimum.

Roland O. Hower, chief of exhibits research, has developed equipment that permits dehydrating of the frozen specimen and the dehydrated tissue is not subject to decay.

Hower said the process permits a man to do five times as much work. A skilled taxidermist could mount a duck in a day, he said, but with the freeze-dry method one worker could handle five ducks.

Most reptile exhibits are actually castings of snakes and made of plaster of paris. With Hower's process, viewers are looking at the actual snakes.

Simplified, the process works this way: the specimen is posed and then frozen; it is then placed in a special vacuum tank and with a cold trap and vacuum pump the frozen moisture is removed, bypassing the liquid stage.

The process is limited to smaller animals because of equipment limitations, but Hower said a six foot alligator had been mounted with this process.

He is now experimenting with more sophisticated equipment and investigating problems on color retention. There has been some distortion of colors on fish and of the bright orange and yellow in reptiles.

High Altitude Gardening

By RON GUSTAFSON

Grape vines require heavier annual pruning than most other fruit.

This should be done during the dormant season. It is important to keep in mind that all grapes bear their fruit at the base of the new shoots which develop from the dormant buds on one-year-old canes.

This one-year-old wood is light tan as compared to older canes with a darker colored bark. Another important point to know is the location of these productive buds for the variety concerned. Once this is known, the grapes can be pruned by one of two systems.

One is the long cane system where the productive buds are located a short distance out on the one-year-old wood or the spur system where the productive buds are located adjacent to the main trunk of the plant. If there are doubts as to the location of these buds, pruning by the long cane system will assure you of productive buds.

The long cane system of pruning is used in the single trunk, four cane Enfilen system. Here the plant is trained to two horizontal wires. The lowest wire is 30 inches above the ground and the upper wire is 24 to 30 inches above this lower wire.

A dormant grape vine will have two types of canes present; those covered with rough dark brown bark which are no longer productive and the smooth, light yellowish-brown canes that bear the fruit crop for the following summer. The dark brown canes are the first removed.

The grape produces more fruiting wood than it can support, so only four younger, light tan canes are saved, two for each wire. Only a total of 10-15 buds should remain on each of the four selected canes. The canes selected should be one-fourth inch in diameter between the fifth and sixth bud; and originated close to the main trunk.

Four additional canes are now selected and cut back to within two buds of the main portion of the plant. These are renewal spurs and will produce the canes that bear fruit the following season (1971). All other canes should be completely removed back to the main portion of the plant.

When planting grapes over arbors or fences, the canes should be well spaced over the area. Often the vines are pruned to short spurs, two to three buds long, to provide a quicker and more uniform covering of the arbor. The older, larger canes are selectively removed over a period of years and replaced by spurs.

If an unseasonably warm day put you in the mood for action, start with your pesticide storage area. Even if you were careful about storing leftover chemicals last fall, you may have overlooked the problems which temperature and moisture can cause.

Glass containers holding liquid herbicides may have broken during a cold period. This can be dangerous from the safety standpoint and because of possible contamination of other pesticides in storage.

In addition, freezing may have changed the chemical makeup of solutions. Some chemicals crystallize out of solution at temperatures below 32 degrees Fahrenheit and you shake the container, no harm has been done. But if the crystals do not return to solution, dispose of the pesticide promptly.

Temperature does not affect dusts and wettable powders, but moisture does. If containers have been left partially open, some chemicals will absorb moisture from the air and will cake. This may make these chemicals unusable.

Because chemical formulations vary so much, take a few minutes to re-read the labels. These contain detailed information about the proper use, handling, and disposal of specific pesticides.

Pigeons Learning To Forget

By WENDELL A. MORDY
At Bryn Mawr College, they have been teaching pigeons to forget.

It turns out to be a very interesting research project. Of course, before they teach them to forget, they have to teach them something to forget, so that their forgetfulness can be recognized. What they have taught them is to recognize colors.

A group of twenty-four pigeons and a group of twenty-four goldfish were used in these experiments. They had never been subjected to learning experiences before. Each group was taught to feed itself by learning to recognize the color of a feeding apparatus.

Each pigeon was put in a separate picnic basket with two feed containers of different colors. It was taught to feed itself by recognizing the color of the feeding apparatus which contained grain.

The goldfish were put in separate tanks. In their case, plastic feeding devices were lowered into the tank which had red and green lights in them. When the goldfish chose the red-lighted feeding box, the feeder dispensed a live worm.

After a time, the animals learned to recognize which color feeding apparatus they could expect to reward them. The pigeon would show this by pecking on the grain feeder; the goldfish would show it by nosing or striking at the appropriate color.

In the beginning, of course, they couldn't recognize the right target from the wrong one. In order to teach them which was the correct color, they were first exposed to a choice of the two boxes.

If they failed to make the right choice, they were placed in darkness for six seconds. Then the correct target alone was lit up. When the animal responded to this by striking at the box, it was rewarded. The procedure was followed for forty different trials.

The animals were considered educated when they failed no more than six times at a given 40-trial session. For the final 20 trials, they were allowed only three errors.

Once the pigeons and the goldfish were "educated," the experiments began. The experiment was to teach them to forget what they had learned and to see whether the forgetting was different for the goldfish than it was for pigeons, or different for both pigeons and goldfish, if they were taught to forget one day later as opposed to two weeks later.

How do you measure forgetfulness? In this test the animals were deliberately confused by reversal of the signals on the feeding trays. They were then retrained to respond to the other color. This training with the other color continued until they met the same test for being educated goldfish or pigeons as in the first instance.

Following this reversal, a time interval elapsed before they were tested for errors again, half the animals for a short interval of one day and half with long interval of two weeks. There were three such reversals altogether, and the errors in memory were measured each time.

What was the result? For one thing, pigeons are more forgetful than goldfish. For another, both pigeons and goldfish forgot more easily after an interval of two weeks than after an interval of only a day.

The goldfish behaved pretty much the same way in each of the four instances; that is, even after reversal and retraining they made about the same number of errors as they had made after the first period of training.

The pigeons, however, each time they were retrained, made more errors, indicating that they remembered something of

Welk Crew To Pay Debt

WELLS, Nev. (AP) - Members of the Lawrence Welk program will do a show here next month to repay a six-year-old favor by residents of this northeast Nevada community of 1,100.

A plane with 15 Welk television show performers made an emergency landing here in April 1964 en route to a show in Twin Falls, Idaho. Three Wells men drove the cast to Idaho, then brought them back to spend the evening until they could continue their flight.

The entertainers' agent offered a show in return for the favor, and this year the chamber of commerce accepted. Myron Floren will headline the April 3 show in the high school gymnasium, to be followed by a champagne party.

their original training. They were more confused by the reversal training that followed. Where 24 hours elapsed between their training and their testing, there was a steady increase in errors as they went through the three reversals.

What do the experimenters hope to learn from these experiments? I guess that men have always known that learning to do a job one way makes it harder to learn to do the same job a different way. People have generalized on this to all animal learning.

But these studies seem to indicate that this is not a general pattern for all animals - that fish learn differently and remember differently than other vertebrates.

To summarize their findings, Drs. Erika R. Behrend, Alice Schade Powers and M. E. Bitterman, writing in the Jan. 23 issue of "Science," conclude:

"... Our results suggest that different memory mechanisms operate in pigeons and goldfish. When a color preference is established and reversed in a pigeon, traces of the original training apparently remain after reversal training to interfere with the traces of that training and of subsequent training." "One way to explain the fish results is to assume that, when a preference is reversed in a fish, the effects of the original training are not stored independently after reversal, but supplanted entirely by those of the reversal training."

Shani Wallis Takes Nugget Spotlight

The last two weekends of March have been set aside at John Ascuaga's Nugget in Sparks, Nev. The second two weekends, March 20 & 21 and 27 & 28, "Oliver's" female star, Shani Wallis, backed up by the Four Fuller Brothers, will swing through the shows in the Circus Room.

Shani Wallis is a show - biz enigma. She's had the lead in an academy award winning movie, been in Broadway hits, received the best of critical praise, made coast to coast nightclub appearances and been on almost every major television show. And yet, her name is not quite a household word. Her training comes from the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in her native England. Her credits in England include "Finians Rainbow," "Wish You Were Here," "Wonderful Town" and "Irma La Douce." Shani opened Broadway's "A Time For Singing," to unanimous critical applause.

Shani is probably known best for her portrayal of Nancy in "Oliver." The movie won a host of academy awards and has played around the world. She has been on just about every major TV show in the country. Johnny Carson, Dean Martin, Danny Kaye, The Hollywood Palace, Jack Jones's Special, Ed Sullivan.

She has the unique ability to "soft and easy" you into a romantic song and then shatter the chandeliers with a swinger.

Miss Wallis will have some of the finest backing in the country as the Four Fuller Brothers take the second act chores. The Fullers hail from Little Rock, Ark. Two of them, Chip and Dale attend Little Rock University while the two younger brothers, Bobby and Randy are still in high school. The Four Fuller Brothers have been appearing around the country and on TV for several years now and are rated the best of the "young old pros."

Collectively, they play 14 instruments, sing, both individually and together and even more amazing, maintain an "A" grade level in school. Most show reviewers give them an "A Plus."

Show times in the Circus Room at John Ascuaga's Nugget are 8 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. and a third show on Saturday night at 1:45 a.m.

Pop Art

Lily Tomlin, new gal on "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" on NBC-TV, says when she lived in New York's Greenwich Village while trying to crash Broadway, she hung a tricycle from the ceiling of her apartment as her contribution to pop art.

Who Would Notice?

"If Lady Godiva took her famous ride today," says Karen Jensen of NBC-TV's "Bracken's World" series, "probably the only thing people would notice would be the horse."

MARCH ENTERTAINMENT - The policy of weekend entertainment continues through the month of March in the Circus Room of John Ascuaga's Nugget in Sparks, Nev. The second two weekends, March 20 & 21 and 27 & 28, "Oliver's" female star, Shani Wallis, backed up by the Four Fuller Brothers, will swing through the shows in the Circus Room.

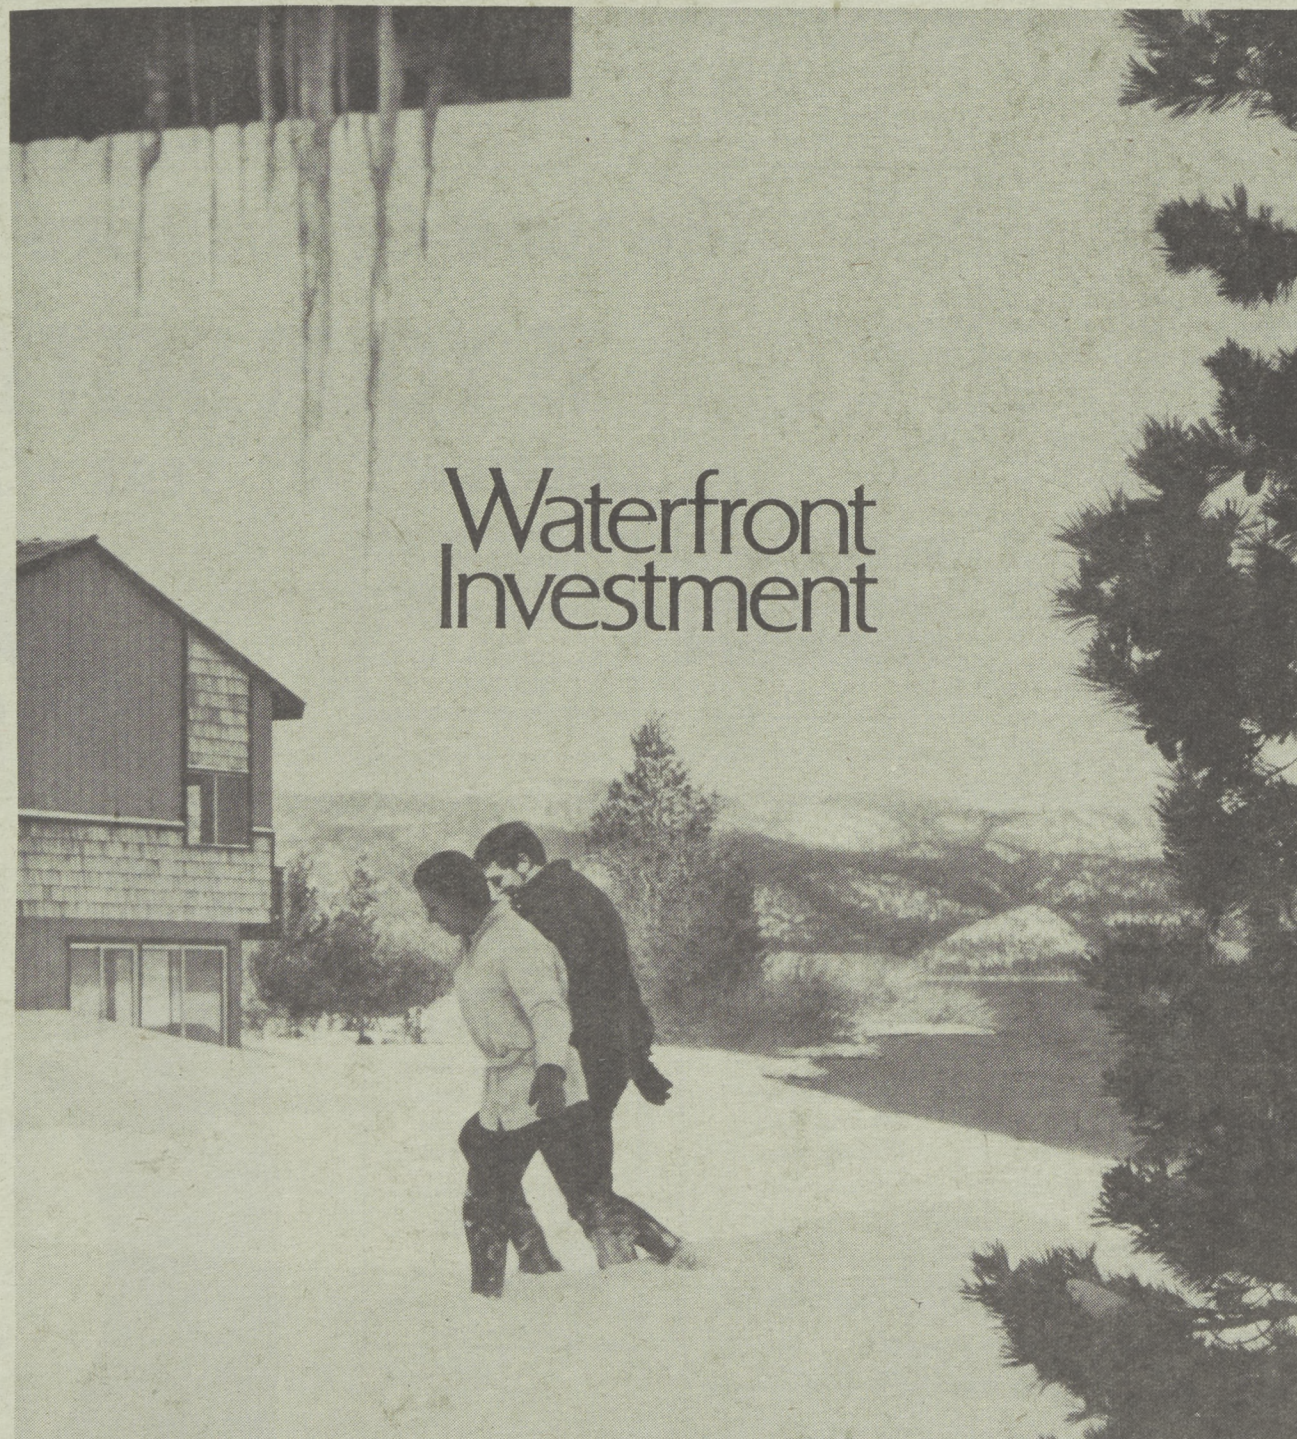

THEIR WEDDING DAY - The Little Old Man (Arte Johnson) and Gladys Oromphby (Ruth Buzzl) will have their park bench romance culminate in their wedding on the NBC Television Network's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" colorcast Monday, March 16.

'Switched-On Symphony' To Play Music Of Seventies

Music of the Seventies - from the classic sounds of the symphony orchestra to the rhythmic beats and striking harmonies of contemporary pop groups - will be featured in "The Switched-On Symphony," a musical entertainment special to be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Saturday, March 14.

Conductor Zubin Mehta and the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra will star in the show, which will present such top names from the contemporary popular music scene as Ray Charles, Bobby Sherman and the Jethro Tull rock group, plus such prominent classical musicians as violinist Pinchas Zukerman and pianist Joao Carlos Martins.

With Mehta serving as host and guide, the Bell System special will take viewers on a musical journey through time, tracing the popular sounds of today to their roots in the classics and exploring the current syntheses of popular and concert music. It also will examine the present status of the symphony orchestra, a flourishing and integral part of today's music scene.

"We're not out to compare or criticize popular music or symphonic music. We're going to amalgamate them into a musical collage, fusing the classical with the contemporary," explained producer Jack Good.

"The accent will be on youth, young musical talents from both classical and popular fields, with most of our guests under 30 years of age. These people are the products of their era; they speak the same language with different accents."

The guest roster included:

- Ray Charles, one of the most popular interpreters of the soul sound;

- Pinchas Zukerman, 21-year-old Israeli violinist;
- Bobby Sherman, 22, pop singer, instrumentalist and television actor ("Here Come the Brides");

- Joao Carlos Martins, Brazilian pianist who has performed with virtually every major symphony orchestra in the United States;

- Jethro Tull, the new English rock group offering music steeped in the classical tradition, whose recent recordings are hovering at the top of the music charts both in England and the United States;

- Daniel Barenboim, 26, the noted Israeli conductor and pianist;

- Jacqueline du Pre (Barenboim's wife), the 23-year-old English cellist who made her debut at 14 in London's Wigmore Hall;

- The Nice, an English rock group with an open-minded musical attitude which permits them to adapt Bob Dylan and Bach, Tim Hardin and Tchaikovsky, Dave Brubeck, and Sibelius.

Horton Star Of Animated TV Special

Another incredible creature from Dr. Seuss' famed literary menagerie will make its television debut in "Horton Hears A Who," an animated musical adaptation of the internationally popular children's story about a kindhearted elephant, to be presented as a special broadcast Thursday, March 19 in color on the CBS Television Network.

Actor Hans Conreid will narrate this second Dr. Seuss tale to be translated from book form to television. Unlike the first, "Dr. Seuss' How The Grinch Stole Christmas," which had its premiere on the Network in December 1966, and, after three highly successful repeat performances, is becoming a holiday tradition, the lead character or creature - is a hero.

As leading "man," the helpful elephant goes to the rescue of Whoville, the harassed hamlet which faces another crisis just as it has pulled itself together after the arsenic-hearted Grinch's annual Christmas larceny.

RELAXING BETWEEN SHOWS - Popular comedian Buddy Hackett displays a big smile while hairstylist Gene Chacove (Hollywood) puts the finishing touches on a haircut. Hackett and his family are spending the week between his Sahara-Tahoe appearances (March 7 & March 14) at the hotel and the upcoming shows on March 14, should be wild. With Hackett is lovely, young singer Teresa Graves, a member of the "Laugh In" television family

Ballad Of The Iron Horse Traces History Of Railroads

The railroads of America, which unlocked the nation to expansion while serving as a means of transportation, are the subject of a loving portrait drawn in the ABC News documentary, "The Ballad of the Iron Horse," which will be telecast Sunday, March 15.

The program, produced by John H. Secondari Productions, Ltd. in association with ABC News, traces the history of the railroads and the men who ran the trains from the 1820s to the present and includes a glimpse at the future railroads of the country.

"The Ballad of the Iron Horse" goes back to the beginning of railroads in this country, the days when trainmen were regarded as daredevils and trains as curiosities. Scene will be full-scale replicas of many early locomotives, among them the first practical locomotive built in this country, the famous "Tom Thumb," and the train "Best Friend of Charleston."

Soon after the railroads became an accepted means of conveyance, if not convenience, the battle lines of the North and South were drawn and the railroads went to their first war. Re-created battle scenes, graphics and classic photographs of the period demonstrate how trains were used as military tools. The railroads gave mobility to the warring forces and played a significant role in the outcome of the Civil War because virtually all the engines and cars were manufactured in the North.

"The Ballad of the Iron Horse" also examines what many historians consider the most ambitious undertaking of the 19th century - construction of the transcontinental railroad. Spanning the deserts, prairies and mountains, of America to link its coasts for the first time, the meeting of the rails at Promontory, Utah, on May 10, 1869, meant more than travel and commerce between East and West.

The latter part of that century and the first years of the present were the halcyon days of railroading. As railroads spread across the land local depots became meeting and social centers, business and industry relied heavily on them for fast and reliable transport of goods. Yet the period was not without unrest. It was the era of the Pullman strikes, of rebellion by farmers against high rates charged to send their crops to market, and of the great railroad robberies. It was also the age of the railroad tycoons and their monopolies which eventually drew wrath and the legal action from President Theodore Roosevelt and the trust-busters.

Judy Garland Film Classic March 15

"The Wizard of Oz," the film classic starring the late Judy Garland, will be colorcast as a two-hour special on the NBC Television Network Sunday, March 15.

"The Wizard of Oz" ushers in an "All-Special Night" on NBC-TV. It will be followed by the new two-hour production of "David Copperfield" and the "Prudential's on Stage" drama, "To Confuse an Angel," starring Lee J. Cobb.

In the MGM musical - fantasy, Miss Garland portrays Dorothy, a Kansas farm girl who is whisked away by a tornado to the magical land of Oz where she encounters a brainless scarecrow (Ray Bolger), a rusty tin woodsman (Jack Haley), a cowardly lion (Bert Lahr) and the magical, mystical, omnipotent - and very human - Wizard of Oz (Frank Morgan).

Others in the cast are Billie Burke, Margaret Hamilton, Charley Grapewin, Pat Walshe, Clara Blandick and the Singer Midgets as the Munchkins of Oz. This is the third year that "The Wizard of Oz" will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network, under a long-term agreement with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Limited Knowledge

Wally Cox, a regular panelist on NBC-TV's weekday game show, "The Hollywood Squares," claims the only thing he knows about show business is "that Bette Davis spells her first name funny."

Sneaking Peek

Sign of the times? The teacher of the youngsters on NBC-TV's "Julia" series says 7-year-old Michael Link, co-star of the show, doesn't sneak a peek at comic books, like kids in the old days. Michael sneaks a peek at his reading book when he's supposed to be doing his arithmetic.

Castle Hotel at Incline Village.

The Pipers started in Scranton, Penn. and recorded their first album in 1960 for Hi-Fi Records, Hollywood. They have worked in such places as the Flamingo, Thunderbird and Sahara Hotels in Las Vegas, Harvey's and Cal-Neva at Lake Tahoe and the Cabana in Palo Alto.

Tony Costa plays guitar and piano and does all of the arrangements for the group. He is one of the outstanding male vocalists today. His vocal ability ranges from the most current "now sound" and songs to the most swinging jazz interpretations of standards. He also has a unique flare for his own brand of wit and comedy.

Joan Costa is considered one of the finest female lead vocal group singers in the business. She has branched out on her own and traveled as a single girl vocalist, touring the Orient, Palm Springs and other fine supper clubs in the country.

Combine both talents of Tony and Joan, and you get a fresh new approach that is exciting and powerful. This was proved when they were given a 17-minute spot on the Mike Douglas Show and completely captured the audience. The group has also appeared on five Steve Allen Shows.

Gary Allen is on alternating lead guitar. He has worked with Don Ho and is master of his instrument.

Frank McDonald is on base and has worked with Billy Eckstine and other greats in the business. Chris Lenthall is a young new drummer with a great future and an asset to the Town Pipers.

CASTLE STARS - There is a girl somewhere that goes with these three guys to make the music of the Town Pipers. The group is currently entertaining in the Casino Lounge of Kings Castle Hotel at Incline Village. Joan Costa is featured vocalist with the group.

Griffin Guests

Three-count 'em - three Academy Award winners were among the guests on a recent Hollywood taping of "The Merv

Griffin Show," late weeknight series on the CBS Television Network. The Oscar winners were Edmond O'Brien, who won the Best Actor Award for "The Barefoot Contessa"; Patty Duke, Best Supporting Actress in "The Miracle Worker," and Miyoshi Umeki, Best Supporting Actress in "Sayonara."

SWINGER-SINGER - Pretty Teresa Graves, who scored such a hit as a member of the Bob Hope Vietnam Christmas tour, will join Buddy Hackett during his special show, March 14, in the High Sierra Theatre of Hotel Sahara-Tahoe. Miss Graves recently finished a month-long engagement at the Sahara Hotel with Hackett and he invited her to appear at the Sahara-Tahoe shows. "I think she's the most exciting young singer in the business," Hackett said. And that pretty well sums up what everyone else is saying about the talents of Miss Graves. If she looks familiar, that's because she's seen each week on NBC Television's "Laugh-In."

No Rest For Nabors

Though "The Jim Nabors Hour" has completed taping all of its broadcasts for the present season, Nabors has a full schedule of activity until taping for next season begins again in early August.

This week he flies to New York to attend opening night at the Metropolitan Opera for the Met debut of his good friend, Marilyn Horne. The day after his night at the Met he flies to Hawaii for a week's vacation with other good friends, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Unitas. Unitas is the star quarterback of the Baltimore Colts.

After a week in Hawaii he returns to Los Angeles to record an album for Columbia Records, then goes to Miami for a Columbia Records convention.

In May he begins rehearsing with Carol Burnett for their two-week stand at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas which will begin June 4. After that it's a month's stand at Harrah's Lake Tahoe and then back to Los Angeles to start rehearsals and taping for another season of "The Jim Nabors Hour," seen Thursdays in color on the CBS Television Network.

KIRBY AT WORK - The many faces of talented comic-impressionist George Kirby are depicted in this series of photos. Kirby opened last weekend in Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room and will complete his two weekend stay this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Kirby At Harrah's For Second Weekend

For the second straight weekend many-talented George Kirby will be serving up high-fashion fun and entertainment in Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room.

Kirby will again offer three shows this weekend, March 13-

15, with two performances scheduled each night. Friday and Saturday night showtimes are set for 8:15 p.m. and midnight. The dinner show on Sunday will begin at 5:30 p.m. with the cocktail show slated for 9 p.m. Kirby succeeds in being well-liked. Through his infectious grin, relaxed stage presence and high level humor, Kirby is able to fuse entertainer with audience.

He established a rapport with tablers almost immediately, and maintains this kinship throughout as evidenced by the strong, genuine applause received opening night from an enthusiastic full house. Kirby's hour turn consists of standup comedy, impressions and songs, brought off successfully by a man who has been a master of his craft for three decades.

Singer-composer Ray Stevens will bolster the Kirby show the next three nights, along with conductor Hank Marr and the Brian Farnon Orchestra.

Burt Bacharach in concert ushers in Harrah's full - time entertainment schedule beginning March 20. On March 22 and 23, Pat Paulsen and the Fathers will substitute for Bacharach who will return March 24 and continue through March 30.

Domino, Tillotson Headline Cabaret

Fats Domino and Johnny Tillotson, charter members of the elite gold record club, will share the headline spot in Harrah's Stateline Cabaret March 12 through April 1.

Domino, who has over 17 years in the record business tucked away, refuses to hear the wish of Father Time's scythe.

He is an anomaly in this day of rapid-fire changes in public musical appetites.

Domino's timeless popularity is the result of 18 gold records, each of which was his own composition.

He has turned out nearly 70 songs, among them the familiar "Blueberry Hill," "Ain't That A Shame," "I'm Walkin'" and "My Blue Heaven."

Tillotson has successfully made the transition from teenage idol to a favorite among sophisticated audiences.

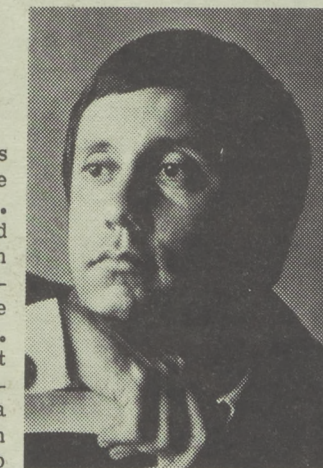

He first gained national attention 10 years ago with his best-selling "Dreamy Eyes," and during the next five years established himself via the million selling record route.

"Poetry in Motion" earned Tillotson a gold record in the U.S. and the Silver Record Award in England, where it sold over 500,000 copies. Tillotson has logged dates at such plush niteries as the Copacabana in New York, the Riviera in Las Vegas, Eden Roc in Miami Beach and the Club Venus in Baltimore, among others.

His success, however, has not been in this country alone. He has had successful tours in Japan, England, Germany, Norway, Sweden, Ireland, Belgium, the Netherlands and Italy.

The Hear and Now, a strong vocal group with five-way harmony, also opened for three weeks March 12 in the Cabaret. Their material runs the gamut from today's music to old standards.

IN SHOWROOM - Singer-composer Ray Stevens balances the bill this weekend with many-talented George Kirby in Harrah's Tahoe South Shore Room. Stevens authored such song hits as "Ahab the Arab" and "Guitarzan."

We've declared war on the copycat buffet.

You'll enjoy the results of our chef's originality. You'll enjoy the casual atmosphere, the complimentary wine, and the music of Brian Farnon.

Most of all, you'll like the price. $1.95. It's $1.25 for children, Sunday through Thursday, 5 to 11 p.m., except March 8. Come to the South Shore Room. Our buffet is more than meets the eye.
